MERCY DRIVE OPENS TUESDAY

NAME LEADER AND HER AIDES IN ROLL CALL FOR RED CROSS

Mrs. Aubrey Dornan Appointed Campaign Chairman.

$2,000 IS GOAL

Booths Will be Established in Business Houses.

Mrs. Aubrey Dornan has been named chairman of the annual Red Cross roll call campaign, which will open in East Liverpool next Tuesday—Armistice Day. Her appointment was made by Mrs. H. C. Ostermann, chairman of the East Liverpool chapter of the American Red Cross.

Her aides include Miss Mabel Smith, Mrs. Harry Sharp, Miss Erma Geller, Mrs. W. N. Vordrey, Miss Marion McDonald, Miss Esther Anderson, Mrs. Harold Bulger, Mrs. Kenneth Weaver, Mrs. George Boice, Mrs. Albert Smith, Miss Mildred Weaver, Miss Louise Thompson, Miss Phoebe Crawford, Miss Mary Alice Cowan, Miss Louise Betz, Mrs. Clarence McNutt and Mrs. Chris Pusey.

No House-to-House Canvass. The campaign workers have set a goal of $2,000 for their drive which will continue until Thanksgiving day. This amount is necessary to maintain the home nursing division for a year. Because of the depletion of the Red Cross funds the nursing activities were suspended several months ago. No house-to-house canvass will be made by the workers. Booths will be established in the downtown business houses and theaters. The executive committee will forward letters to manufacturers, business and professional men and others, who are expected to make large contributions.

Fifty cent of each membership must go to national headquarters, the balance being retained for the local work. Of the $1 membership, there

THREE PRODUCE FIRMS MERGED

Palmisano, Gerace and Martino to Erect Modern Structure.

Three East Liverpool produce houses were consolidated Saturday, when businesses of Michael Gerace, Palmisano & Gerace, and Gus Martino, were combined under the firm name of Palmisano, Gerace and Martino.

The deal provides for the retirement of Joseph Palmisano, and Michael Gerace, senior members of their respective houses, in business here for the past 35 years, and the transfer of their interest and management to younger members of the two families.

The new company has purchased the old Clinton property on Second street, situated between Market and Washington streets, and has let the contract for the construction of a modern produce house. The dimensions of the new building will be 40 by 110, and will have switching accommodations to enable the handling of carload shipments. A battery of eight trucks will be maintained.

The new company expects to have partial use of its new building within six weeks.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The United States Veterans Bureau is now taking care of 25,000 world war veterans in 49 government hospitals, and has 3,100 beds available for additional patients. Director Frank T. Hines reported to President Coolidge today.

FOUR BOYS ARE HELD FOR DISTRICT ROBBERIES

Merchants and Farmers Collect $900 For East Liverpool-East Palestine Road

Police Seize Liquor Cargo After Battle With Rum Runners

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—After a battle with rum runners who escaped early today police seized a small steamer in the Delaware river containing a cargo of liquor estimated to be worth about $500,000, one of the largest captures made since the passage of the Prohibition laws.

A cursory examination of the ship's cargo revealed between 4,000 and 5,000 cases of what is believed to be Scotch whiskey.

ARMISTICE DAY PARTY PLANNED FOR ORPHANS

DAY OF THRILLS

Auto Tour, Vaudeville, Dinner and Other Features Slated.

Several score kiddies from the McCullough-Jefferson county children's home at Yellow Creek will be royally entertained by East Liverpool lodge No. 253, B. P. O. Elks, next Tuesday afternoon and evening, the affair marking the fourth annual Armistice day observance of the organization.

The children will be honor guests of the day. Officers of the lodge and members of the committee planning the event have spared no efforts in their arrangements to turn the day from one of drab routine to a colorful series of festivities for the youngsters. One big thrill after another is the promise of the committee members who are R. L. McKenty, chairman; David Eaton and James Brock.

There will be only one address on the program and that will be given by Attorney Ben L. Bennett, who, it has been announced, will choose a subject especially for the youngsters.

Lodge members will go after the children at 11:30 a. m. on a special car over the lines of the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company. The entire delegation will be back at the lodge home in West Fifth street at 1:30, ready

Cleveland Woman Slain by Caller; Suspect Arrested

CLEVELAND, Nov. 8.—Mrs. Elizabeth Trasco, 42, was shot and killed early today by a caller at her home. An hour later Walter Sabawski, of Detroit, was arrested at Union Station, as he was about to board a train. Police say he confessed.

Sabawski was said to have been in love with Mrs. Trasco's daughter, Mrs. Lena Zigeas, 22, whom he met in Detroit a year ago. He called at the Vasko home last night and attempted to induce her to return to Detroit with him. She refused.

Record votes were cast in Columbiana county, East Liverpool and Liverpool township in last Tuesday's general election, according to the official tabulation, completed by the county election board Friday evening.

In the county, 30,448 votes were polled, while in East Liverpool 7,443 electors voted. The total vote in the township, outside of East Liverpool, was 950. These figures varied little over the estimates made by Chief Deputy J. S. Hilbert, of the election board, preceding the election.

Davis' Lead Cut To 205. President Coolidge increased his plurality over his rivals in the official count, his lead over the other four aspirants totalling 11,623. Davis lost six votes in the official count, while La Follette gained 40. Wallace, Commonwealth candidate, also gained in the official tabulation.

Harry L. Davis' lead over Governor Donahay for governor was reduced to 205, Davis polling 14,066 ballots to 13,861 for the incumbent.

Chamber of Commerce Unit Aids in Canvass for Improvement of Important Market Highway in Middleton Township.

In a two-day drive, Middleton township farmers, assisted by members of the Merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce, collected more than $900 here which will be used in the grading of the proposed East Liverpool-East Palestine road through Middleton township, it was announced Saturday.

Several Middleton township farmers, interested in the completion of the highway between the two cities, came here Thursday to engage in the solicitation of subscriptions, while three others took charge of the solicitation Friday, aided by H. B. Barth, Chamber of Commerce secretary, T. E. Lewis and Harry Meyer, of the Merchants' division.

Farmers Share Expense.

The East Liverpool-East Palestine road is regarded as one of the main arteries of traffic in Columbiana county, as it is the only road running north and south in the eastern part of Columbiana county. The Chamber of Commerce and East Palestine good roads officials have made repeated attempts to have this road designated as an inter-county highway, but state road department officials, in failing to act, assert that the state has already more mileage than it can maintain and that it is the policy of the state highway department to designate no further inter-county highways unless circumstances were overwhelmingly in its favor.

Middleton township residents, several months ago, realizing that it would be impossible to obtain state aid for the improvement of this thoroughfare for many years, at least, offered to grade the road if the county would provide the steam shovel. This proposal, the commissioners accepted, and early last May ordered the county steam shovel to the scene of the improvement.

This summer farmers of the township have graded approximately two miles of the highway, the only expense being the wages paid the men on the steam shovel. Farmers have provided the teams, wagons, fuel and all other expenses incidental to the improvement of the road.

Right of Way Given

Business men of East Palestine already have given several hundred dollars for the improvement of the road. The Middleton township residents, feeling that the road would be of a big benefit to East Liverpool inasmuch as the fruit growers in the district would be within reach to the city, have asked merchants here for a contribution.

Freighter Aground Off Sandusky; Coal Docks Isolated

SANDUSKY, Nov. 8.—The freighter W. H. McGeen, clearing Sandusky for Indiana Harbor last night, was aground in the city channel, close to the inner harbor buoy today. She struck submerged construction last night. Three compartments are filled with water, and the vessel is badly damaged.

Tugs summoned from Detroit to effect her release and make possible temporary repairs, had not arrived this morning.

The water in Sandusky Bay, three feet below normal last night, was rapidly approaching normal today. The position of the McGeen is such that no boats can get to or leave the West End coal docks until she is removed.

Donahay for governor was reduced to 205, Davis polling 14,066 ballots to 13,861 for the incumbent.

Lodge Riddle's majority over S. W. Crawford for probate judge was reduced to 2,256 while Deputy Sheriff George Wright increased his majority over F. C. Armstrong, his opponent, to 2,535.

Miss Joe Pike, county treasurer, who was unopposed for a second term, led the ticket with 21,303 votes.

The county jail bond issue went down to defeat by a vote of more than two to one, the official majority being 8,621.

19 Reported Dead From Earthquake Shock in Algiers

ALGERS, Nov. 8.—Nineteen are reported dead from an earthquake shock which destroyed many buildings here. The populace is panicky, fearing other shocks will follow.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—Three thousand are homeless as a result of the earthquake in the vicinity of Algiers, according to dispatches received here this afternoon. The Red Cross is rushing relief to the scene.

POLICE BILL IS EFFECTIVE, BROKAW RULES

Emergency Ordinance Operative When Mayor Signed it.

NO APPOINTMENTS

Executive Says he Will Name But Five Specials.

The emergency ordinance, enacted by city council, Wednesday evening, creating 15 special police officers, is effective now, Solicitor Harry Brokaw ruled Saturday.

According to the solicitor under Section 4227.3 of the General Code, the measure became a law immediately upon the signature of the mayor. Mayor Brown approved the ordinance the day after it was passed.

While all ordinances and resolutions, approved by council, must be published, this is not required before an emergency measure become effective, as publication may be made after it becomes operative. The ordinance will be published next week.

Under Police Discipline

Mayor Brown has at list containing the names of 14 eligibles for the special police places. He announced Saturday morning that he will make his appointments "as soon as I can legally do so." He said he intended to talk the matter over with Solicitor Brokaw before announcing his selections.

But five special officers will be named at the start, he declared but others may be appointed as conditions warrant. He said that the appointments will be under police discipline and will work under the direction of Chief of Police McDermott, Captain Conley and the Safety Director, Sant E. Anderson.

The special police ordinance makes it legal for the city to employ special officers at any time the necessity arises, the mayor declared. Heretofore, when it has been necessary to employ special officers, it has been done without authority, but now, with passage of the ordinance, the action is legal, the mayor said.

Veteran Conductor Dies

WHEELING, V. Va., Nov. 8.—Captain Albert Shahan, for 46 years a Baltimore and Ohio employee, and for 35 years passenger conductor, who never had a wreck, is dead at his home here of pneumonia.

Andy Gump Gets Vote in County

The fact that Andy Gump's name was not printed on the presidential ballot did not affect him in Columbiana county, Chief Deputy J. S. Hilbert, of the election supervisors, said Saturday.

"One voter," said Hilbert, "merely wrote Andy's name in large letters across the top of his ballot and placed an X in front of it. No other candidates were marked."

"Of course, the ballot was not counted."

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS FROM DISTRICT HEAR DR. BIEDERWOLF

BLAZE OF COLOR

Band Leads East Liverpool Youths on High School Night.

Youth, exuding optimism, vibrant in strength and reflecting future potentialities, held sway at the Second and Washington street tabernacle on Friday night when the East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester and Newell V. Va. High schools attended the union revival en masse, heard Dr. W. E. Biederwolf in one of his most vigorous and compelling sermons and, finally, in response to the invitation given more than 200 of them solemnly went forward. Some to dedicate and others to consecrate their lives in the Master's kingdom.

Into sections reserved for them and decorated with their own colors came the pupils. Marching into the auditorium amid the cheers of their parents, relatives and others in attendance and accompanied by many of their teachers, they took their places and quickly joined in the pre-service meeting.

Given the center section the East Liverpool High school, led by the uniform band and directed by their instructor, Ralph Johnson, wended their way to the space in front of the platform via the north aisles. There the musicians contributed several numbers as their companions found their seats.

In turn, Chester and Newell pupils found their places in the front seats of the North section and the Wellsville contingent on the Southside.

Instantly the auditorium rang with the various yells of the school. Each vied with the other in clever verbal releases, all appealing and eliciting instant and constant cheers from the others in the structure. With Prof. H. F. Laughlin, director of music in the East Liverpool High school, directing a lull was had in the yells as the students combined in a school song to the tune of "Hail, Hail, the Gang is All Here."

And so it seemed. Even members of East Liverpool school board, President Jason Brooks, Vice President D. F. White, F. T. Weaver and R. W. Sample, having marched to the tabernacle with the local pupils, were enmeshed in seats directly in front of them and immediately before the platform.

On one yell—and there were all sorts

R. O. Dailey, Cooper, Arrested in Canton On Wife's Charges

Ray O. Dailey, Cooper, was arrested in Canton, Friday, by constable Clyde O. Birch, of St. Clair township, upon information preferred by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Dailey, of Broadway, charging him with the abandonment of his two minor children.

Brought back to East Liverpool he was arraigned before Justice P. V. Mackall, who fined him $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail. The fine and jail sentence were suspended upon his promise to contribute $24 monthly toward the support of his children.

POLICE CLAIM ARRESTS SOLVE FOUR JOBS HERE AND THREE IN LISBON

TRIO RIDING IN STOLEN AUTOMOBILE WHEN ARRESTED NEAR WEST POINT

Clean-up of Investigation Follows Apprehension of Everett Brookes, 20, Who Denies Complicity, But is Held for Court Under $1,000 Bond, While City Authorities Arrest Manning Banfield, Who Confesses Ransacking Barber Shop.

Police, Saturday, declared at least three robberies in East Liverpool and three in Lisbon, as well as the looting of Cleveland and Pittsburgh railroad freight cars and the theft of an automobile here, had been solved by the arrest of Fewson Stacey, Dale and Dana Brookes and Manning Banfield.

Stacey and the Brookes youths, who were arrested on the Wellsville-Lisbon road, south of West Point, Friday afternoon, pleaded guilty of looting the offices of three Lisbon places—Youngstown and Ohio station, Lisbon Lumber Co., and the Roller flour mill—when arraigned before a Lisbon court.

Questioned by Chief of Police Hugh McDermott and Pennsylvania railroad officers, after they had been taken to the county jail, Stacey and his two companions told conflicting stories. Stacey, however, admitted robbing the Laughlin railroad station and the home of John Eiferd on Lincoln highway, north of East Liverpool, police say. He also confessed, it is claimed, that he and his companions had robbed railroad freight cars.

The Chevrolet car, in which three of the boys drove to Lisbon, was stolen from its parking place near the Carnegie library, Fourth street, at 10 o'clock Thursday night.

Conley Arrests Banfield.

Young Banfield was arrested at his home near the Pennsylvania avenue car barns Friday night by Captain Conley and Douglas Leyda, Pennsylvania railroad detective, upon an affidavit signed by Chief McDermott.

Arraigned before Mayor Brown Saturday morning the lad, police announced, confessed he looted the William Coffie barber shop in East End on the night of October 27, when a revolver and three razors were stolen. He denied any complicity, however, in the robbery at the Laughlin railroad station or other crimes charged against the lads held at Lisbon.

Banfield was held for the probate court on a charge of breaking and entering, bond being fixed at $500 which his mother furnished. He will appear before Probate Judge Lodge Riddle Monday morning.

Everett Brookes Arrested. Less than 12 hours after the three Lisbon robberies were committed Everett Brookes, 20, formerly of Lisbon, but who has been residing in East Liverpool, was arrested here, charged

Jurist Candidate Suffers Breakdown Following Campaign

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 8.—Arthur Morgan, defeated candidate for judge of the Mahoning probate court, was in the city hospital today, suffering from a nervous breakdown caused by overwork in connection with his campaign.

Morgan, the Republican nominee, was defeated by Cliff Woodsides, who had the endorsement of the Ku Klux Klan. He was found wandering along the Erie railroad tracks.

Given Ice Cream, Confess. The four lads were known to have been with Ernest just before he disappeared but steadfastly maintained he left them to look after his muskrat traps in Cowlicks swamp. They were energetic in the search, consistently misleading the detectives and volunteer searchers.

Congressmen Hurry Back to Washington For December Meet

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The Congressional vacation has ended and today house offices and committee rooms began to fill with workers bent on legislative duties.

Representative Wallace H. White, Maine, chairman of the Special House Committee investigating the shipping board, arrived today to prepare for resumption of this investigation. A mass of data has been gathered at previous hearings. This is to be studied by the committee and new lines for the probe are to be developed. It is probable no additional hearings will be held until after Congress reassembles Dec. 1.

BLAZE OF COLOR

Band Leads East Liverpool Youths on High School Night.

Youth, exuding optimism, vibrant in strength and reflecting future potentialities, held sway at the Second and Washington street tabernacle on Friday night when the East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester and Newell W. Va. High schools attended the union revival en masse, heard Dr. W. E. Biederwolf in one of his most vigorous and compelling sermons and, finally, in response to the invitation given more than 200 of them solemnly went forward. Some to dedicate and others to consecrate their lives in the Master's kingdom.

Into sections reserved for them and decorated with their own colors came the pupils. Marching into the auditorium amid the cheers of their parents, relatives and others in attendance and accompanied by many of their teachers, they took their places and quickly joined in the pre-service meeting.

Given the center section the East Liverpool High school, led by the uniformed band and directed by their instructor, Ralph Johnson, wended their way to the space in front of the platform via the north aisles. There the musicians contributed several numbers as their companions found their seats.

In turn, Chester and Newell pupils found their places in the front seats of the North section and the Wellsville contingent on the Southside.

Instantly the auditorium rang with the various yells of the school. Each vied with the other in clever verbal releases, all appealing and eliciting instant and constant cheers from the others. In the structure. With Prof. H. F. Laughlin, director of music in the East Liverpool High school, directing a hull was had in the yells as the students combined in a school song to the tune of "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

And so it seemed. Even members of East Liverpool school board, President Jason Brooks, Vice President D. F. White, F. T. Weaver and R. W. Sample, having marched to the tabernacle with the local pupils, were enmeshed in seats directly in front of them and immediately before the platform.

On one yell—and there were all sorts

R. O. Dailey, Cooper, Arrested in Canton On Wife's Charges

Ray O. Dailey, Cooper, was arrested in Canton, Friday, by constable Clyde O. Birch, of St. Clair township, upon information preferred by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Dailey, of Broadway, charging him with the abandonment of his two minor children.

Brought back to East Liverpool he was arraigned before Justice P. V. Mackall, who fined him $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail. The fine and jail sentence were suspended upon his promise to contribute $24 monthly toward the support of his children.

POLICE CLAIM ARRESTS SOLVE FOUR JOBS HERE AND THREE IN LISBON

TRIO RIDING IN STOLEN AUTOMOBILE WHEN ARRESTED NEAR WEST POINT

Clean-up of Investigation Follows Apprehension of Everett Brookes, 20, Who Denies Complicity, But is Held for Court Under $1,000 Bond, While City Authorities Arrest Manning Banfield, Who Confesses Ransacking Barber Shop.

Police, Saturday, declared at least three robberies in East Liverpool and three in Lisbon, as well as the looting of Cleveland and Pittsburgh railroad freight cars and the theft of an automobile here, had been solved by the arrest of Fewson Stacey, Dale and Dana Brookes and Manning Banfield.

Stacey and the Brookes youths, who were arrested on the Wellsville-Lisbon road, south of West Point, Friday afternoon, pleaded guilty of looting the offices of three Lisbon places—Youngstown and Ohio station, Lisbon Lumber Co., and the Roller flour mill—when arraigned before a Lisbon court.

Questioned by Chief of Police Hugh McDermott and Pennsylvania railroad officers, after they had been taken to the county jail, Stacey and his two companions told conflicting stories. Stacey, however, admitted robbing the Laughlin railroad station and the home of John Eiferd on Lincoln highway, north of East Liverpool, police say. He also confessed, it is claimed, that he and his companions had robbed railroad freight cars.

The Chevrolet car, in which three of the boys drove to Lisbon, was stolen from its parking place near the Carnegie library, Fourth street, at 10 o'clock Thursday night.

Conley Arrests Banfield.

Young Banfield was arrested at his home near the Pennsylvania avenue car barns Friday night by Captain Conley and Douglas Leyda, Pennsylvania railroad detective, upon an affidavit signed by Chief McDermott.

Arraigned before Mayor Brown Saturday morning the lad, police announced, confessed he looted the William Coffie barber shop in East End on the night of October 27, when a revolver and three razors were stolen. He denied any complicity, however, in the robbery at the Laughlin railroad station or other crimes charged against the lads held at Lisbon.

Banfield was held for the probate court on a charge of breaking and entering, bond being fixed at $500 which his mother furnished. He will appear before Probate Judge Lodge Riddle Monday morning.

Everett Brookes Arrested.

Less than 12 hours after the three Lisbon robberies were committed Everett Brookes, 20, formerly of Lisbon, but who has been residing in East Liverpool, was arrested here, charged with the same.

Jurist Candidate Suffers Breakdown Following Campaign

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 8.—Arthur Morgan, defeated candidate for judge of the Mahoning probate court, was in the city hospital today, suffering from a nervous breakdown caused by overwork in connection with his campaign.

Morgan, the Republican nominee, was defeated by Cliff Woodside, who had the endorsement of the Ku Klux Klan. He was found wandering along the Erie railroad tracks.

BOY IS SLAIN, BODY HIDDEN

Four Playmates Held For Killing Lad, Aged 13.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Four boys from the same Boy Scout troop, just about old enough to take their first interest in outdoors, guns and hunting, waited today in the children's home in Brooklyn for arraignment in children's court Monday on the charge of killing their playmate, Ernest Schwer, 13.

The confession and aid in finding the body in the brush-filled pit, where the terror-stricken boys had thrown it, ended a ten-day hunt by detectives, an airplane, neighbors, school children and firemen of the Brooklyn truck company of which the boy's father was a member.

If their ages permit, Captain Gallagher said today, charges of homicide will be filed against Ernest's four companions, Arthur and Harold Megan, 12 and 11; Charles Hirschfeld, 9, and Adam Rotunda, 12, whose confessions were obtained by the promise of all the ice cream that little Adam Rotunda could eat.

Congressmen Hurry Back to Washington For December Meet

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The Congressional vacation has ended and today house officers and committee rooms began to fill with workers bent on legislative duties.

Representative Wallace H. White, Maine, chairman of the Special House Committee investigating the shipping board, arrived today to prepare for resumption of this investigation.

A mass of data has been gathered at previous hearings. This is to be studied by the committee and new lines for the probe are to be developed. It is probable no additional hearings will be held until after Congress reassembles Dec. 1.

HOME ESSAY JUDGES NAMED

Five Will Pass Upon Local Lighting Compositions.

Miss Edna Simms, Mrs. Robert T. Hall, F. P. Geiger, C. W. Hellyer and W. H. Vodey have been selected by the East Liverpool Electrical League as judges of the essays submitted by the school children of East Liverpool and Wellsville in the local home lighting contest, it was announced Saturday.

This contest, which is a part of the international competition that is being held in all of the important cities and towns in the United States and Canada, closes Monday, when all essays must be in the hands of the electric light company or electrical dealers in East Liverpool and Wellsville.

More than 2,000 children participating will share in the following prizes: Two first prizes, one boy and one girl, $25 each; two second prizes, one boy and one girl, $15 each; two third prizes, one boy and one girl, $10 each; two fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh prizes, one boy and one girl each group, $10; two eighth, ninth and tenth prizes, one boy and one girl in each group $5.

Fourteen of the local prize winning essays will be submitted to the judges of the international contest. The prizes to be awarded in the international contest are: first, $15,000 model electrical home to be built on lot provided by the winner; two second prizes—one boy and one girl, $12,000 scholarship in American or Canadian College or university of accepted standard; two third prizes, one boy and one girl, $600 scholarship in American or Canadian College or university of accepted standard; two sixth prizes—one boy and one girl, $200 scholarship in American or Canadian College or university of accepted standard.

Mrs. W. G. Harding Has Restless Night; Not so Well Today

MARION, Nov. 8.—Mrs. Warren G. Harding, widow of President Harding, is not so well today. She has experienced increasing pains in the region of the abdomen, where complications developed some time ago. Last night she was restless. During the day she was able to take only a very little nourishment.

Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, her physician, today issued the following bulletin: "Mrs. Harding has not been so well the last 24 hours. She slept poorly last night and was able to take only a small amount of nourishment during the day. The complications in the upper part of the abdomen have increased in severity."

Temperatures Fall As Snow Blankets Chicago, Detroit

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Snow fell in Chicago today and freezing temperatures were recorded during the night, but the weather man holds forth a promise of brevity for the present cold wave.

The mercury in the official government thermometer here registered 32 degrees at 11 o'clock last night and remained at the freezing point until 1 a. m., when it began to rise slowly, reaching 39 at 7 a. m. In the face of a stiffening northwest breeze, however, it dropped to 36 at 8 a. m. and hovered around that mark most of the morning.

and with entering the offices of the roller mill. Brookes pleaded not guilty when given a preliminary hearing in Lisbon on a charge preferred by Marshal Roy Lewton and was held under $1,000 bond.

Soon after the arrest of Brookes, word was received by Sheriff Gomer Lewis that three other suspects were noticed walking south on the Y. & D. tracks toward East Liverpool. The information was telephoned to East Liverpool police. Sheriff Lewis and Deputy George Wright hastened to West Point and there learned that the three boys had turned toward Wellsville. When Sheriff Lewis reached the top of the hill on the Wellsville-Lisbon road, the three boys were resting on the side of the road.

They were placed in the sheriff's car, handcuffed and returned to Lisbon, where they were charged with also robbing the roller mill office. Each entered a plea of guilty. They were all held for the grand jury under $2,000 bail.

One Prisoner is 16.

Dana Brookes, aged 16 years, was wearing a fleece lined vest coat, alleged to have been stolen from the roller mill office when arrested.

Dale Brookes, who was 15 years old July last, and Stacey had little to say when they were arraigned, although they admitted entering the offices of the Y. & O. and the Lisbon Lumber company.

According to Stacey, one of the watches stolen from the Elford home was thrown into the Ohio River. Four revolvers, part of the loot were sold.

Stacey's Third Trip To Court.

"We came to Lisbon trying to find a road to Columbus," Stacey said. "We had a blowout and when we were detected we started back to East Liverpool and slept all night in a barn on the Lincoln highway at the top of Green's hill."

Charges of stealing an automobile are to be filed in a Lisbon court against the quartet.

Dana Brookes, the youngest of the boys arrested, was made a ward of the juvenile court in 1921 at the age of 12 years. His father died in Lisbon about a year ago.

Stacey next week will face Judge James G. Moore for the third time this year. He was indicted by the January grand jury for cutting and stabbing Fred Williams, but a jury acquitted him.

He was charged with breaking and entering the restaurant of Charles Wilson, East End, East Liverpool, with Jerry Cunningham and Joseph Cunningham. He told the court he would be a good boy when up for sentence and a trip to Lancaster was suspended.

DEATH ROLL

Wilson K. Irwin.

Wilson K. Irwin, 76 years old, former resident of East End, died Friday at the home of his niece, Frank Johnson, New Castle, Pa. Death resulted from complications.

He leaves the following children: Frank, Louisville, Ky.; Harry, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Maude Vovet and Mrs. Bella Smith, both of Wilkinsburg, Pa. Burial will be made at Niles.

Mrs. R. C. Lee.

Mrs. R. C. Lee, 62 years old, died Friday afternoon at her home, 131 Rural Lane. Death followed an extended illness of complications.

She leaves the following children: Mrs. Florence Ball, Kansas City, Mo.; Thomas Lee, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Ethel Watkins and Oliver Spencer, both of this city.

Funeral services will be held at 7 o'clock this evening, conducted by Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist church. The body will be taken to Meigs county for burial.

Mildred Smith Funeral.

Funeral services for Mildred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Smith of Broadway, Wellsville, will be held on Sunday afternoon at the family residence, in charge of Rev. Harry Stewart, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Burial will be made in the Yellow Creek church cemetery.

Farming Industry Will Get Attention At Congress Session

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The farming industry will receive considerable attention from the forthcoming short session of congress.

Plans toward this end were being worked out here today by administration officials and congressional leaders following the creation by President Coolidge of a Federal commission to study the needs of American Agriculture with a view to making recommendations to congress next month.

Former Governor Robert D. Carey, of Wyoming, will be chairman of the president's commission. Associated with him will be O. E. Bradford, Chicago, president of the American farm bureau federation, Charles S. Barrett, Union City, Ga., chairman of the national board of farm organizations; Louis T. Tabor, Columbus, Ohio, master of the national grange; Ralph P. Merrill, Fresno, Cal., president of the Sun Maid Raising Growers; R. W. Thatcher, Geneva, N. Y., director of the New York state agricultural experiment station; W. C. Coffey, dean of the college of agriculture of the university of Minnesota; and Fred H. Bixby, Long Beach, Cal., president of the American Live Stock association.

President Coolidge has tentatively suggested November 17 as the date for the first meeting of the commission.

Two Children Die, Three Others Hurt In Farm House Fire

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Two children were burned to death and three others seriously burned in a fire that destroyed the farm house of Perry B. Aldridge, 3 miles north of Victor.

of them—the four schools agreed and each after the other gave vent to it under a different direction by the enthusiastic and efficient cheer leaders. It was:

"What's the matter with Biederwolf? He is all right. Who is all right? Biederwolf. Who said so? Everybody! Who is everybody? East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester and Newell! Gives Princeton Yell."

Enthusiastically greeted by Mr. McEwan and finally by Dr. Biederwolf himself, the young folks were made to feel decidedly at home. They laughed at the wit and thrusts of both. Particularly was Wellsville pleased when the evangelist, looking over at them, said "Your colors, orange and black, are the same as Princeton University which I attended." He drew another laugh when he remarked: "When I was a High School lad we did not have anything like this. Our hapless diversion was going to the old pump for a drink of water."

Remindful of the big doling in and about Old Nassau, he muttered the Princeton yell: "Tiger, Tiger, Tiger! Sis Boom, Ah!"

Gaily had the posts of the big tabernacle been decorated with the four class colors. The center section for a deep shade reflected the blue and white of East Liverpool; the orange and black of Wellsville; the South side, the purple and yellow of Chester; to the North of the center and another section to the Northside sat the Newell young folks under their blue and white. Featuring the platform their letters and banners and numerous pennants hung, the whole making a setting at once attractive and inspiring.

Enthusiasm Uncorked.

Outstanding was the work of the cheer leaders of all the schools. Fronting their fellow pupils from advanced to the expected depth of the demanded shouts, lulled into semi-vigorous phrases so arranged and shunted into contrast loomed the more boisterous tones. All in all the looked for enthusiasm was genuinely and orthodoxically uncorked.

The cheer directors were Bruce Perry and Wallace Sample for the East Liverpool High; Lawrence Neace and Miss Mildred Lawrence for Newell; Miss Blanche Paisley for Chester and William Wickline and James McDonald for Wellsville.

Into such a setting and within this atmosphere following a concert by the 500-voiced choir which, if anything, surpassed any previous performance by it and concluding with the singing of the "Welsh Hymn," Biederwolf plunged into his sermon on Christ's words: "And Ye Will Not Come That You May Have Life."

Plainly he indicated the right path ways for those seemingly with many years before them, unhesitatingly he pointed out the dangers along the

Ohion Is Street Car Victim.

CANTON, Nov. 8.—Samuel Persky, 64, of Canal Fulton, died in a hospital here today as the result of injuries received Thursday morning when he was struck by an interurban car of the Northern Ohio Traction & Light company. Persky was truck on the Canton-Massillon road while on his way home.

Funeral services will be held at 7 o'clock this evening, conducted by Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist church. The body will be taken to Meigs county for burial.

Funeral services for Mildred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Smith of Broadway, Wellsville, will be held on Sunday afternoon at the family residence, in charge of Rev. Harry Stewart, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Burial will be made in the Yellow Creek church cemetery.

Future of Third Party as Political Factor Uncertain

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The future of the La Follette third party as a factor in American politics is distinctly uncertain—this much can be stated on the authority of some of those most intimately connected with it.

None of the little group of leaders who fought and went down—with the Wisconsin insurgent in the campaign just ended is yet willing to bury their hopes of a strong, independent and Liberal third party. On the contrary, they are more determined than ever that the efforts and money expended in this campaign shall not have been in vain.

"Going on? Of course, we are going on." That is the answer of William H. Johnston, chairman of the Conference for Progressive Political Action, who has been one of the big labor leaders behind the La Follette movement, to all questions.

Labor Leaders Meet To Outline Their Legislative Plans

CLEVELAND, Nov. 8.—Representatives of 20 labor unions, including all the standard railroad labor unions, assembled secretly here today to outline a legislative program for the short session of congress, convening early in December. The meeting was called by Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

It was expected that the Howell-Barkley bill would be strongly backed by the unions.

It was said that a statement might be issued after the conference broke up.

Coolidge to Attend Army-Navy Teams In Grid Battle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—President Coolidge will attend both the Army and Navy football games at Baltimore and the Chicago livestock show, it was learned at the White House today, but the President has not yet decided on what day he will visit Chicago.

Representative Martin B. Madden, of Illinois, conferred with the President at the President's request today concerning plans for his Chicago visit. It was said a definite date for the President's visit would be announced later. It is thought probable he will leave Baltimore following the football game and go direct to Chicago.

Traces Organization's Growth.

Tracing the organization through its stay in Kirkland, Ohio, Independence, Mo., Nauvoo, Ill., and finally Salt Lake City, the trials that the sect underwent and the dissension following the passing of Joseph Smith and the ascension of Brigham Young as the organization's head, he explained that the present Latter Day Saints did not subscribe to many of the beliefs of the Mormons in Utah, the state reached by the so-called true believers on July 24, 1846.

How the church passed through the supposed necessity for blood atonement in which human sacrifices were frequently made was vividly told.

Four bibles, he declared, are used by the Mormons; the so-called "Book of the Mormons," "Doctrines and Covenants" and "Doctrines and Revelations" by Joseph Smith and "The Pearl of Great Price."

As to God, Dr. Biederwolf asserted, the Mormons believe He has flesh, bones and blood like a man; that there are many Gods, all having worlds of their own, propagated by them through their various wives. Adam is regarded to be the God of the earth.

Mormon Beliefs.

Christ, it is said by the Mormons, was the Son of Adam and Mary and that he was not conceived of the Holy Ghost as the Christian Bible affirms. Madden, they declare, he said, he was a married man.

As to salvation, he said, the Mormons believe the dead may be saved as well as the living by vicarious actions of those alive.

As to baptism, this, too, may be vicariously done. It is estimated 3,000, 000 baptisms of this sort have occurred.

"One woman," the evangelist said, "told me she had been baptized 400 different times for various dead people, one of these being Queen Victoria. Her husband was not well enough to share these for the departed so she accepted the work."

Though the disressing branch of the church does not subscribe to polygamy, the practice was declared to be another revelation by Joseph Smith which after his passing was brought to light.

After imprisoning several leaders and confiscating millions of their property the United States government finally released them, re-entranced them, legitimized babies, born of plural marriages gave back the money held and made Utah a State under the promise that the wealth returned should not be used politically, and polygamy abandoned. These, he said, had not been kept.

That the latter Day Saints expect Christ to return at Independence, Mo., where their headquarters are was declared to be their belief by the evangelist.

"Don't argue with a Mormon," he declared. "Keep away from them." They will angle you in a moment for they know their Bible well. Girls especially should be warned not to listen to the suave promises of "emissaries who may meet them."

Before the service Rev. John M. Baker led in prayer and Mrs. W. L. Baker, of West Fourth street sang.

REVIVAL PLANS FOR WEEK-END

Saturday night—Sermon by Dr. Biederwolf, "Zacchaeus." Sunday morning, 10:45—All services at the tabernacle. Sermon by Dr. Biederwolf, "God is Love."

Sunday afternoon, 2:30 p. m.—For men and women at the tabernacle. Sermon by Dr. Biederwolf, "Christian Science."

Sunday night, 7:30 p. m.—For men and women at the tabernacle. Sermon by Dr. Biederwolf, "The Love of My Saviour."

Friday afternoon sermon. Affirming that the devotees of Mormonism had reached a total of 500,000 membership in the United States from an initial half dozen persons who formed the organization following the alleged revelation given to Joseph Smith in 1820, Dr. Biederwolf on Friday afternoon asserted the church claimed that more persons had allied with it in the past year than in all the Protestant congregations together.

More than 5,000 missionaries are going about the country, he said, in the interest of the Mormons and in the past year 3,000,000 homes had been visited by them.

Dr. Biederwolf traced the origin of what is now a dominant church in the Western Section of this country in which 11 states are largely controlled by it. He declared that the church claims to have come down from two Jews who later became divided into what was known as Lamanites and Nephites.

Mormoni, who later is said to have become an angel, led golden plates which, buried in Commora hill, New York, were many years later discovered by Joseph Smith, following a revelation. This became known as the golden bible, with which was a pair of golden spectacles, Urim and Thummim, which enabled him to read the purported Egyptian hieroglyphics upon them. In opposition to this story are 39 counts, the speaker said.

Tracing the organization through its stay in Kirkland, Ohio, Independence, Mo., Nauvoo, Ill., and finally Salt Lake City, the trials that the sect underwent and the dissension following the passing of Joseph Smith and the ascension of Brigham Young as the organization's head, he explained that the present Latter Day Saints did not subscribe to many of the beliefs of the Mormons in Utah, the state reached by the so-called true believers on July 24, 1846.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Railroad stocks figured in a spectacular opening of the stock market today, with prices of well known stocks making gains in the maximum of 2 1/2 points and practically all of the stocks which have been featuring the market in the last few sessions advancing to new high price levels. The rails were still the leaders in the forward movement, though the industrial shares were quicker to join the rally than in the last three sessions and the prices of representative issues, like Baldwin, American can, U. S. Steel, rose from 1 to 3 points in the first period.

The rise in sterling to a new high for 1924 at $4.604 was at great significance to those who attach much importance to European developments. It was reported in speculative circles today that British and Dutch investors were in the market for a large quantity of prime railroad and industrial stocks and bonds of the variety of which they were heavy purchasers before the war.

Today's market was but a repetition of the last three preceding sessions, with the same group of railroad and industrial stocks pushing forward to the highest price levels of the year and in some cases for 10 or 20 years. Not since 1912 has New York Central sold above 116, the price recorded today. Southern railway, union pacific, Pere Marquette, Nickel Plate, Baltimore and Ohio, Southern Pacific, Erie, St. Paul, Missouri Pacific and Canadian Pacific were in the forefront of today's vigorous upward movement.

Oil stocks and independent steels, in their respective order, were the next to command the attention of market traders and transactions in these stocks were unusually heavy.

This completed, the entire party will be taken to the Strand theatre where officers of the American Amusement Co., will act as hosts. This performance will last from 2:30 o'clock until 5.

With their appetites duly whetted by this time, the children will be expected to do full justice to the children dinner which will be awaiting them on their return from the theatre. The dinner will be prepared and served by the Ladies of the Elks, the hour being from 5:30 until 6:30.

The ball room and DeMar Miller's orchestra will be at the direction of the visitors from 6:30 until 9. A program of entertainment features and dancing is expected to occupy their attention fully.

The children will have the privilege of the dance floor until 9 o'clock. After that there will be dancing for club members.

Pop, ice cream, milk—there'll be plenty of all of it—will be furnished by the Crocker City Ice and Products Co.

The return trip to the home will be made in the street car shortly after 9 o'clock.

Physicians Amazed By Senator Lodge's Battle for Life

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 8.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge's condition was said this morning to be unchanged since midnight. Late last night a bulletin was issued at the Charles Gates hospital, holding out some slight hope for his recovery. Attending surgeons and physicians were amazed at the veteran senator's vitality. They said early today that he had retained yesterday's gains.

Senator Lodge suffered a stroke last Wednesday noon and since has been in an unconscious condition most of the time.

Dr. Cunningham said that he expected Senator Lodge to live tonight and probably tomorrow.

Five Will Pass Upon Local Lighting Compositions.

Miss Edna Simms, Mrs. Robert T. Tall, F. P. Geiger, C. W. Hellyer and W. H. Vodyer have been selected by the East Liverpool Electrical League as judges of the essays submitted by the school children of East Liverpool and Wellsville in the Local Home Lighting contest, it was announced Saturday.

This contest, which is a part of the international competition that is being held in all of the important cities and towns in the United States and Canada, closes Monday, when all essays must be in the hands of the electric light company or electrical dealers in East Liverpool and Wellsville.

More than 2,000 children participating will share in the following prizes: Two first prizes, one boy and one girl, $25 each; two second prizes, one boy and one girl, $15 each; two third prizes, one boy and one girl, $10 each; two fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh prizes, one boy and one girl each group, $10; two eighth, ninth and tenth prizes, one boy and one girl in each group $5.

Fourteen of the local prize winning essays will be submitted to the judges of the international contest. The prizes to be awarded in the international contest are: first, $15,000 model electrical home to be built on lot provided by the winner; two second prizes—one boy and one girl, $1,000 scholarship in American or Canadian College or university of accepted standard; two third prizes, one boy and one girl, $500 scholarship in American or Canadian College or university of accepted standard; two sixth prizes—one boy and one girl $300 scholarship in American or Canadian college or university of accepted standard.

Mrs. W. G. Harding Has Restless Night; Not so Well Today
MARION, Nov. 8.—Mrs. Warren G. Harding, widow of President Harding, is not so well today. She has experienced increasing pains in the region of the abdomen, where complications developed some time ago. Last night she was restless. During the day she was able to take only a very little nourishment.

Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, her physician, today issued the following bulletin: "Mrs. Harding has not been so well the last 24 hours. She slept poorly last night and was able to take only a small amount of nourishment during the day. The complications in the upper part of the abdomen have increased in severity."

and with entering the offices of the roller mill. Brookes pleaded not guilty when given a preliminary hearing in Lisbon on a charge preferred by Marshal Roy Lewton and was held under $1,000 bond.

Soon after the arrest of Brookes, word was received by Sheriff Gomer Lewis that three other suspects were noticed walking south on the Y. & O. tracks toward East Liverpool. The information was telephoned to East Liverpool police. Sheriff Lewis and Deputy George Wright hastened to West Point and there learned that the three boys had turned toward Wellsville. When Sheriff Lewis reached the top of the hill on the Wellsville-Lisbon road, the three boys were resting on the side of the road.

They were placed in the sheriff's car, handcuffed and returned to Lisbon, where they were charged with also robbing the roller mill office. Each entered a plea of guilty. They were all held for the grand jury under $2,000 bail.

One Prisoner is 16.
Dana Brookes, aged 16 years, was wearing a fleecy lined vest coat, alleged to have been stolen from the roller mill office when arrested.

Dale Brookes, who was 18 years old July last, and Stacey had little to say when they were arraigned, although they admitted entering the offices of the Y. & O. and the Lisbon Lumber company.

According to Stacey, one of the watches stolen from the Elford home was thrown into the Ohio River. Four revolvers, part of the loot were sold.

License plates on the stolen Chevrolet car were removed, and a set of plates owned by Everett Brooks, obtained for a Ford car in Lisbon last May, were substituted.

Stacey's Third Trip To Court.
"We came to Lisbon trying to find a road to Columbus," Stacey said. "We had a blowout and when we were detected we started back to East Liverpool and slept all night in a barn on the Lincoln highway at the top of Green's hill."

Charges of stealing an automobile are to be filed in a Lisbon court against the quartet.

Dana Brookes, the youngest of the boys arrested, was made a ward of the juvenile court in 1921 at the age of 12 years. His father died in Lisbon about a year ago.

Stacey next week will face Judge James G. Moore for the third time this year. He was indicted by the January grand jury for cutting and stabbing Fred Williams, but a jury acquitted him.

He was next charged with breaking and entering the restaurant of Charles Wilson, East End, East Liverpool, with Jerry Cunningham and Joseph Cunningham. He told the court he would be a good boy when up for sentence and a trip to Lancaster was suspended.

DEATH ROLL

Wilson K. Irwin.

Wilson K. Irwin, 76 years old, former resident of East End, died Friday at the home of his niece, Mrs. Frank Johnson, New Castle, Pa. Death resulted from complications.

He leaves the following children: Frank, Louisville, Ky.; Harry, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Maude Vowett and Mrs. Bella Smith, both of Wilkinsburg, Pa. Burial will be made at Niles.

Mrs. R. C. Lee.

Mrs. R. C. Lee, 62 years old, died Friday afternoon at her home, 121 Rural Lane. Death followed an extended illness of complications.

She leaves the following children: Mrs. Florence Bell, Kansas City, Mo.; Thomas Lee, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Ethel Watkins and Oliver Spencer, both of this city.

Funeral services will be held at 7 o'clock this evening, conducted by Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist church. The body will be taken to Meigs county for burial.

Mildred Smith Funeral.

Funeral services for Mildred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Smith of Broadway, Wellsville, will be held on Sunday afternoon at the family residence, in charge of Rev. Harry Stewart, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Burial will be made in the Yellow Creek church cemetery.

Farming Industry Will Get Attention At Congress Session

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The farming industry will receive considerable attention from the forthcoming short session of congress.

Plans toward this end were being worked out here today by administration officials and congressional leaders following the creation by President Coolidge of a Federal commission to study the needs of American Agriculture with a view to making recommendations to congress next month.

Former Governor Robert D. Carey, of Wyoming, will be chairman of the president's commission. Associated with him will be O. E. Bradute, Chicago, president of the American farm bureau federation, Charles S. Barrett, Union City, Ga., chairman of the national board of farm organizations; Louis T. Tabor, Columbus, Ohio, master of the national grange; Ralph P. Merritt, Fresno, Cal., president of the Sun Maid Raising Growers; R. W. Thatcher, Geneva, N. Y., director of the New York state agricultural experiment station; W. C. Coffey, dean of the college of agriculture of the university of Minnesota; and Fred H. Bixby, Long Beach, Cal., president of the American Live Stock association.

President Coolidge has tentatively suggested November 17 as the date for the first meeting of the commission.

Temperatures Fall As Snow Blankets Chicago, Detroit
CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Snow fell in Chicago today and freezing temperatures were recorded during the night, but the weather man holds forth a promise of brevity for the present cold wave.

The mercury in the official government thermometer here registered 32 degrees at 11 o'clock last night and remained at the freezing point until 1 a. m., when it began to rise slowly, reaching 39 at 7 a. m. In the face of a stiffening northwest breeze, however, it dropped to 36 at 8 a. m. and hovered around that mark most of the morning.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 8.—Michigan awoke today to find itself shivering in near freezing temperature, the coldest of the season. The belated cold snap blanketed northern Michigan with four to six inches of snow, and necessitated storm signals over the upper lakes.

In the eight hours between 1 and 9 p. m. yesterday the mercury dropped 29 degrees.

Condemned Slayer Of Cousin Seeks Review of Case
COLUMBUS, Nov. 8.—Alexander Kuzsik of Akron, 25, who is under sentence to die in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary for the murder of his 13-year-old cousin, Elizabeth Nagy, today appealed to the state supreme court for a review of his case.

Grounds for the appeal were that the trial court erred in excluding certain evidence of the defense and that Kuzsik was not mentally sound when the crime was committed.

Kuzsik was to have been executed October 17, but was reprieved by Governor Donahay until December 12, after the governor refused to commute his sentence.

Canton Boy Found Dead in Hotel Room; Suicide, is Belief
CANTON, O., Nov. 8.—George S. Ulrich, 18, was found dead in the Barnett hotel at 3 o'clock this morning with a bullet wound in his right temple.

Coroner T. H. Shober said the youth had taken his own life and that death had been instantaneous. His father, William A. Ulrich, contractor, said he could advance no reason why his son committed suicide.

Ohioan Is Street Car Victim.
CANTON, Nov. 8.—Samuel Persky, 64, of Canal Fulton, died in a hospital here today as the result of injuries received Thursday morning when he was struck by an interurban car of the Northern Ohio Traction & Light company. Persky was struck on the Canton-Massillon road while on his way home.

Future of Third Party as Political Factor Uncertain
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The future of the La Follette third party as a factor in American politics is distinctly uncertain—this much can be stated on the authority of some of those most intimately connected with it.

None of the little group of leaders who fought and went down—with the Wisconsin insurgent in the campaign just ended is yet willing to bury their hopes of a strong, independent and Liberal third party. On the contrary, they are more determined than ever that the efforts and money expended in this campaign shall not have been in vain.

"Going on? Of course, we are going on." That is the answer of William H. Johnston, chairman of the Conference for Progressive Political Action, who has been one of the big labor leaders behind the La Follette movement, to all questions.

route and emphatically declared the action necessary for a full existence here and a blissful state hereafter.

"Three things keep young people away from God," he declared; "pleasure, pride and procrastination. Christianity means for you to give yourself up to God. This does you will know what you can do without offense to Him in the surrender receive real happiness which worldly pleasures, no matter how inviting, you will find in time will not satisfy the craving of a worth-while soul."

Those laughing at those accepting Christianity are not worth bothering about. Procrastination has sent many to perdition and lost to those coming later years of service to God. Once the invitation was given the students, hesitating momentarily, broke their ranks and the aisles were clogged as they went forward to grasp the perspiring evangelists hand. Signing the cards, they again surged about the platform as Rev. Fred Bennett led in prayer.

The evening invocation was made by Dr. Donald W. McLeod, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Mr. McEwan sang, "The Love of My Saviour."

Coolidge to Attend Army-Navy Teams In Grid Battle
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—President Coolidge will attend both the Army and Navy football game at Baltimore and the Chicago livestock show, it was learned at the White House today, but the President has not yet decided on what day he will visit Chicago.

Representative Martin B. Madden, of Illinois, conferred with the President at the President's request today concerning plans for his Chicago visit. It was said a definite date for the President's visit would be announced later. It is thought probable he will leave Baltimore following the football game and go direct to Chicago.

Two Children Die, Three Others Hurt In Farm House Fire
ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Two children were burned to death and three other persons seriously burned in a fire that destroyed the farm house of Perry B. Aldridge, 3 miles north of Victor.

The dead: Enos Aldridge, six, and his sister, Winnone Aldridge, 12.

High School Students
of them—the four schools agreed and each after the other gave vent to it under a bit different direction by the enthusiastic and efficient cheer leaders. It was:

"What's the matter with Biederwolf? He is all right. Who is all right? Biederwolf. Who said so? Everybody! Who is everybody? East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester and Newell! Gives Princeton Yell."

Enthusiastically greeted by Mr. McEwan and finally by Dr. Biederwolf himself, the young folks were made to feel decided at home. They laughed at the wit and thrusts of both. Particularly was Wellsville pleased when the evangelist, looking over at them, said "Your colors, orange and black, are the same as Princeton University which I attended." He drew another laugh when he remarked: "When I was a High School lad we did not have anything like this. Our happiest diversion was going to the old pump for a drink of water." Reminded of the big doings in and about Old Nassau, he muttered the Princeton yell: "Tiger, Tiger, Tiger! Sis Boom, Ah!"

Gaily had the posts of the big tabernacle decorated with the four class colors. The center section for a deep space reflected the blue and white of East Liverpool; the orange and black of Wellsville on the South side, the purple and yellow of Chester to the North of the center and another section to the Northside sat the Newell young folks under their blue and white. Featuring the platform the letters and banners and numerous pennants hung, the whole making a setting at once attractive and inspiring.

Enthusiasm Uncorked.
Outstanding was the work of the cheer leaders of all the schools. Fronting their fellow pupils from advantageous spots in the aisles they brought out the expected depth of the demanded shouts, hushed into semivocal phrases so arranged and shouted into contrast loomed the more boisterous tones. All in all the looked for enthusiasm was genuinely and orthodoxically uncorked.

The cheer directors were Bruce Perry and Wallace Sample for East Liverpool High; Lawrence Neace and Miss Mildred Jones for Newell; Miss Blanche Paisley for Chester and William Wickline and James McDonald for Wellsville.

Into such a setting and within this atmosphere following a concert by the 500-voiced choir which, if anything, surpassed any previous performance by it and concluding with the singing of the "Welsh Diadem," Dr. Biederwolf plunged into his sermon on Christ's words: "And Ye Will Not Come That Ye Might Have Life." Plainly he indicated the right path-ways for those seemingly with many years before them, unhesitatingly he pointed out the dangers along the

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Railroad stocks figured in a spectacular opening of the stock market today, with prices of well known stocks making gains in the maximum of 22 points and practically all of the stocks which have been featuring the market in the last few sessions advancing to new high price levels. The rails were still the leaders in the forward movement, though the industrial shares were quicker to join the rally than in the last three sessions and the prices of representative issues like Baldwin, American can, U. S. Steel, rose from 1 to 3 points in the first period.

The rise in sterling to a new high for 1924 at $4.604 at great significance to those who attach much importance to European developments. It was reported in speculative circles today that British and Dutch investors were in the market for a large quantity of prime railroad and industrial stocks and bonds of the variety of which they were heavy purchasers before the war.

Today's market was but a repetition of the last three preceding sessions, with the same group of railroad and industrial stocks pushing forward to the highest price levels of the year and in some cases for 10 or 20 years. Not since 1912 has New York Central sold above 116, the price recorded today. Southern railway, union pacific, Pere Marquette, Nickel Plate, Baltimore and Ohio, Southern Pacific, Erie, St. Paul, Missouri Pacific and Canadian Pacific were in the forefront of today's vigorous upward movement.

Oil stocks and independent steels, in their respective order, were the next to command the attention of market traders and transactions in these stocks were unusually heavy.

The boys were taken into the swamp and asked to point the direction Ernest went when he left them. They disagreed, and Captain Gallagher told Rofunda he was going to walk him to Sing Sing. Adam said he would not go until he had something to eat.

It was told he would get nothing until he confessed, but that he could have anything he wanted after he told the whole story.

"See cream?" he asked. "All you can eat" Gallagher promised.

After two plates of strawberry and chocolate, while a third was waiting until he finished his story, Adam told how Ernest was shot when Arthur Megan laid the gun down on a stump. The bullet passed through the boy's temple.

The shovel is now within a short distance of the improved road just south of Anchor. It will be taken to the other end of the improvement within the next few days and will work in a southerly direction as far as the St. Clair township line. St. Clair township farmers expect to adopt the same plan in grading the road from the Middleton township line to the top of the Fredericktown hill as soon as the link in the other township is completed.

The right of way for the new road was needed without cost to the county by the farmers. The surveying was done by the county surveyor.

As soon as the road is graded, the state and county will be asked to provide funds for the surfacing of the five-mile stretch between the top of the Fredericktown hill and the macadam road near Anchor.

Another committee of the Middleton township men will come to East Liverpool Monday to complete their canvass. They are highly pleased with the reception they have received at every place they visited here.

Another committee, appointed by the Chamber of Commerce, will canvass the manufacturers of the district within a few weeks to solicit subscriptions for the improvement of the road.

Klan Files Notice Of Appeal Against Publicity Measure

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Notice of appeal from State Supreme Court Justice Foley's decision, which yesterday declared the Walker, or anti-Klan law, constitutional, was filed at the District Attorney's office this morning by attorneys for the K. K. K.

Julius Grass, one of the hooded order's lawyers, declared he meant to carry the question to the United States Supreme Court if necessary.

The District Attorney's office indicated that it would proceed at once to prosecute the Klan where it had left off by arresting Klan leaders. George C. Bryant, one of the alleged hooded knights, will be hauled into court again, it was said, to answer charges of violating the Walker law, a proceeding undertaken several weeks ago and interrupted by a Habeas Corpus action instituted by Attorney Grass to challenge the Walker law.

Grass replied to this by saying that he would seek an adjournment of Bryant's trial until the litigation came to an end.

SHOPS TO AID VETS' PROGRAM

Majority of Stores to Close at Noon, Armistice Day.

Pledging their co-operation to the Armistice day observance to be held by ex-service men under auspices of Corporal Dan D. Duty post No. 180, Veterans of Foreign Wars, a majority of local merchants and business men have announced their plan to suspend business operations at noon on next Tuesday. Although the day's program formally gets under way in the morning, the general observance is scheduled for the afternoon and evening with events carded for those hours.

The parade of local and visiting ex-service men will be held in the morning at 11 o'clock. In the afternoon interest will be centered on the football game in Central park where the Wellsville Webster Billiards and the Salineville Nash Motors will clash.

A fireworks display in Central park in the evening will conclude the program.

Stork Brings Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur McLean, Riverside avenue, announce the birth of a baby daughter Friday afternoon in the East Liverpool city hospital.

REV. R. W. USTICK AT MUSKINGUM

Rev. R. W. Ustick, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church, of Wellsville, and moderator of the synod of Ohio, will take part in the Armistice day program at Muskingum college.

Rev. Ustick will extend greetings in an address opening the day's program at 10 o'clock. President W. Charles Wallace, D. D., of Westminster college, Pennsylvania, and Senator Simeon D. Fess are other speakers on the morning program. Afternoon and evening events are also scheduled.

Armistice day will have a double significance to New Concord and Muskingum college since it marks the twentieth anniversary of the inauguration of John Knox Montgomery, as well as the closing of the World War.

RED CROSS ASKS FOR CLOTHING

The Wellsville Red Cross chapter has sounded a call for clothing. As a result of the almost constant demand for articles of wearing apparel from the needy of the city, the Red Cross supply has been exhausted.

Clothing and shoes for adults as well as children are needed, it was announced.

Share it with a friend.

STRAIGHT-FROM-SHOULDER BLOWS BY EVANGELIST W. E. BIEDERWOLF

God will not coerce you; he leaves you a free moral agent.

There isn't power enough in hell to send you there if you don't want to go.

There isn't power enough in heaven to draw you through the pearly gates if you have made up your mind to reject Jesus Christ in this world.

Young women who prefer dancing to Jesus Christ are making a fatal mistake.

Indulgence does not make happiness, but denying oneself does.

The Christian is the happiest person in the world all appearances to the contrary notwithstanding.

You've got a mighty little, infinitesimal, measly, mediocre makeup in your soul if you can be satisfied with dancing, wine drinking and the wearing of décolleté dresses.

Some girls, spoliing a chance for an uplifting influence, prefer to go to a cheap show and dance with a spider-legged dude.

If you had a soul of any size, a heart of any worth, you could not be satisfied with aught but a Christian life.

The time will come when you will wish a thousand times you had done the will of Christ, instead of going to the devil as you now are.

Your pride which keeps you from Christ is of the Devil.

The Bible never spoke truer than when it said, "The fear of man bringeth a snare."

You make a mistake if you think the world will laugh at your becoming a Christian.

No matter how long you are permitted to live it is comparative, a short time until you have gray hairs.

SHAVINGS AND SAWDUST FOUND IN DR. BIEDERWOLF'S TABERNACLE

Three Union Services will be held in the tabernacle on Sunday and one, by the Christian Endeavorers at the First Presbyterian church in the evening.

All the members of the evangelistic party wore the various High School colors on Friday night. Mr. McEwan was particularly so decorated. Remembering his visits to their schools, the pupils had arranged long, flowing ribbons for him which he wore without a single protest.

Pupils of the various High Schools put in much time Friday afternoon in making the tabernacle decorations. The committee selected knew how to do the work well.

"Bo" McMillan and "Red" Roberts of the famous Centre college team of Danville, Ky., which two or three years ago defeated Harvard and others of the big eleven of the college world, came down with the members of their team and gave Dr. Biederwolf their hands, he said, in token of a decision to lead better lives in the future at one of his meetings. One of Coach McMillan's customs was to have this famous team to engage in prayer before all their contests.

"Onward, Christian Soldiers" was sung with a vim following the yells of the High school pupils.

AUTO CALLED 'MODERN SATAN'

College Dean Says it is "Waster of Time and Money."

NRBANA, Ill., Nov. 8.—The old one about the camel and the needle's eye was dusted off here today and made applicable to the college student owning an automobile and his chances of uprightness and progress.

"The automobile—the modern Satan," might have been the caption of the letter sent out by Thomas A.

Clark, dean of men at the University of Illinois, to parents of all students owning automobiles.

The letter indicated the automobile as a "waster of time and money" an encourager of loafing, immorality and a factor in poor scholastic standing.

"Whatever of drinking and stealing and sexual immorality exists among the college students is largely in connection with the automobile, the letter reads. "The passion for driving seems often to stimulate other passions and unconventionalities and actual immorality often results."

"Youth is perhaps no more irresponsible now than it always has been but the automobile is an unnecessary evil and an added temptation to loafing and moral irresponsibility."

The letter points out that the University has made no regulations about student-owned automobiles and does not wish to do so, but it calls upon parents for co-operation. Recently several college fraternities passed rules regulating the use of automobiles owned by members. The majority of these specify that machines can be used only on weekends and college holidays or for actual business purposes.

Watch Your Officials Act

Judging from comments by people on the street, the impression prevails in East Liverpool that the sessions of the legislative and other branches of the government are not open to the public. This is not the case, for all city, county, district, state and national business, irrespective of its nature, is the business of the people. Consequently, every man, woman and child has the privilege of looking on.

However, the people do not seem to take advantage of their privileges. Except an occasional visit by a high school civics class, whose members seek first-hand information on the conduct of the people's business, few citizens attend the sessions of city boards. Of course, under ordinary circumstances, such meetings are dull, but at intervals there is enough excitement to warrant a trip to city hall, the high school building, county court house, state house or even the halls of congress.

Keep an eye on governmental business, for it is your business. Watch your officials act.

Better Foreign Market

Business pessimists are finding it hard to hold the faith, in the face of foreign trade figures. Government reports show that the United States sold abroad last month goods amounting to $427,000,000, as against $331,000,000 the month before. Also that the September exports were the highest in 42 months.

The foreign market is improving remarkably. So far, the American farmer is the chief beneficiary, because the bulk of the increase represents exported grains, needed to make good crop failures in Europe. But there have been other times when Europe needed food and America had a surplus without a demand for it. The most significant factor in the present situation is that now Europe is able to buy what it needs.

Today it is buying greatly increased quantities of foodstuffs. Tomorrow it will be sending large orders for merchandise of many kinds. For Europe is getting on its feet again. It has credit, as the recent German loan amply proved, and can have plenty more. But that credit is based on an expectation of Europe passing the credit-purchase stage before long, and becoming able to pay in cash or equivalent goods needed here.

Bigger business with the rest of the world is in prospect. That will surely mean bigger business at home. The foreign trade, though of secondary importance, has a way of fertilizing domestic trade. It may be that the hard years of war and reconstruction are nearly over for the world in general. Certainly the outlook for America is bright.

Studying Teachers

In a city that has 2,100 public school teachers it is reported that 700 of them took special courses at various universities and teachers' colleges during the past summer. Many studied at institutions of learning within their own state. Other enrollments were made at the universities of Kansas, Colorado, Chicago, Wisconsin, Missouri, California, Southern California, Denver, Michigan, Washington, Minnesota, Illinois and Nebraska. Columbia university, numerous normal schools and teachers' colleges and an art institute all that their share. Three teachers studied at the Alliance Francaise, Paris, France.

Judging from the heavy enrollments wherever good summer schools were in session, other cities and smaller communities were contributing a similar proportion of students to those institutions.

This annual "brushing up" on the part of the teaching profession is a very fine thing. It involves travel and meeting new people. It spreads the discussion of school problems and insures that improved methods of teaching are given their chance. Wide-awake teachers are busily keeping abreast of the time and its needs.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policy of The Review-Tribune.)

NOW WE KNOW

The country knows all about it now, or enough to settle the most important questions. The price of wheat, uncertainty of the labor vote and other things considered, La Follette polled a big vote. And, final figures may make it bigger. A third party depends largely on dissatisfaction with old parties. On this occasion, there was only one party really running against La Follette. The Democratic party, nationally, didn't count.

With conditions in America as they are, the number of the dissatisfied is not gigantic. And, at the last minute the dissatisfied farmers on whom La Follette counted were soothed by wheat selling around $1.50 a bushel.

EVERYBODY HAPPY, ALMOST

Wheat and corn went up yesterday, and stocks, especially railroad stocks, were most cheerful. Cotton was less satisfactory, December contracts down to 22 1/2 cents, at least 7 1/2 cents lower than the price ought to be.

WHAT IS GOVERNMENT?

The day devoted to national government being over, not to come again for four years, it might be worth while to establish a definition of government. According to Aristotle, it is "first to see that men shall live; second, to see that they shall live well." That abbreviation of Aristotle's theory in A. E. Shamer's admirable essay on Greek politics, is as good a definition as any.

To see first, that men live, they are supplied with what they need, and not killed by their enemies and second, to see that they live well, in comfort, free from worry, that's government.

Thus far governments have been fairly successful in enabling a certain small minority to live well. The efforts of new parties and radical parties to extend the well being to a greater number or to all, succeed slowly.

The main problem of government at this time, with nations instead of individuals competing, is to keep things moving.

This country needs to go on doing business more than it needs to discover some better way of doing business. It needs to keep factories and farms going, and it's quite certain that the task, for the moment, is helped by leaving things as they are.

Nineteen hundred and twenty-eight is a long way off. But already friends of Governor Smith in New York are saying, "Next time the Democrats will be asking Al Smith to help them," instead of kicking him out of the convention.

They point to his vote in New York, more than wiping out Coolidge's sweep, and showing under the son of Theodore Roosevelt, and say that Al Smith, if nominated, could do what no other Democrat could do.

Time will tell about that. Perhaps the next national campaign will be fought on lines hitherto unknown in United States politics.

You realize that even the power of party habit can be broken when you see white Democrats in the south voting for a Republican governor and colored men and women voting for a Democratic candidate.

For the present, however, the old Republican party is boss, with Calvin Coolidge at the head of it. Barring unforeseen calamity he ought to be about as strong four years from now as Theodore Roosevelt was at the end of his first term.

Roosevelt could gnash his teeth hard and bite off striking phrases. But Coolidge's quiet silence seems also to contain the essence of success.

NO LABOR PARTY, YET

The biggest popular vote that any man ever got in American history is the Coolidge vote, by the way, estimated at more than 18,000,000. It is clear that for the present there isn't going to be any "gigantic labor party" in the United States.

Mr. Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, urged his followers to vote for La Follette. The labor unions, with few exceptions, endorsed La Follette and pledged themselves to vote for him. But something happened, and the men voted with the old parties as usual.

Merely talking about "class consciousness" doesn't create "class consciousness." The mechanic of today is the contractor of tomorrow. It is hard to have genuine "class consciousness" when men slip out of their "class" as easily as they do in the United States.

Opportunity for advancement and enrichment, discourages even mild radicalism. One of the ablest Socialist leaders in this country asked "how many of the 50,000 Socialists in your state would remain Socialists if they inherited $50,000?" replied "perhaps four or five hundred."

This doesn't mean that radicalism is all wrong. It means that men listen to the money in their pockets more carefully than they listen to anything else as a rule.

William Jennings Bryan knows that he was absolutely right when he said the one man that couldn't be elected was John W. Davis. This country is conservative, to put it mildly. Everybody knows that the two old parties represent conservatism and high finance. But moving a candidate direct from the law office of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., Standard Oil and the telephone monopoly into the presidential ballot was a little too much.

Perhaps the plan of the super-bosses was really to make sure of electing Coolidge. If so, the plan worked.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By A. E. GARVIN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Since the advent of a certain amendment to our constitution, there has been a distinct movement to fill the vacancy left in our national life, where man could foregather to settle the destinies of the commonwealth. The National Coffee Roasters association, in convention here, thinks it has a solution to the problem they say exists, and that solution is:

To establish coffee houses for the sterner sex only.

The cigar store, they say, is too small generally, and everyone cannot belong to high-priced clubs, so the informal, exclusive coffee house is being advocated.

Ye Koffy Shoppe would provide a long counter, that slopes away from the customer, and the now nearly extinct brass rail. It would fill the once foaming taps with a rich mellow liquid, golden brown, served either with or without cream.

Booths with tables fastened to the floor with a soft light overhead. "What more," ask the roasters, "could men ask?"

A place where future leaders would discuss the problems of the day, much as they did when our ancestors were still Tories.

"This nation's history is enclosed in the early-day coffee houses," said an official of the association. "Historic, indeed, are the names: 'The Sign of the Green Dragon,' in Boston; 'The Merchants' Coffee House,' in New York; and 'The London Coffee House,' in Philadelphia.

"In the 'Merchants' Coffee House' was fathered the revolt of New York against Toryism, and in Philadelphia the 'London' was the seat of the Continental congress. The men of that day gathered at William Bradford's place, to discuss the events of the day that centered in the figure of George Washington.

"Swinging doors? Why, of course. Everything but the contents of the old stein and the two-fingered glass. Men are naturally a friendly lot and like to get together for discussion and friendly debate of this and that. A steaming cup of America's most universal drink, blended and brewed to make it a delicacy, a bit of a sandwich, and one but other men to interrupt the flow of conversation, can bring nothing but a wholesome conversation, spiked with brilliancies and solutions of troublesome controversies.

"They will come out they went in, taking only their share of the sidewalk, and their minds sharpened for private business problems," according to the association.

"What doesn't a brimming cup of piping hot coffee do for one's brain and general good nature on a nasty, sloppy wintry day?" they ask. "And even though the husband did come home full of coffee, domestic tranquility would not be disturbed.

"We feel it is the solution and the gap filling thing for our national loss, due to the amendment," they conclude.

WHO'S WHO

STANLEY BALDWIN

The man who overthrew the Lloyd George government two years ago, only to find himself forced to step out in favor of the Labor government, now assumes once more the reins of power in Great Britain. He is Stanley Baldwin.

Baldwin is known as a diplomat, but the diplomatic service is a business with him. He handles his duties as premier in the same decisive style that he directs the activities of the Baldwin iron works, enormous Welsh concern, or which he is the head.

His first position of importance was financial secretary to the treasury, which office he held from 1917 to 1921. It was in this department that his financial genius was first realized. He was sent to the board of trade as president with a seat in the cabinet. This position corresponds to that of the American secretary of commerce. O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: The serpentine trail of the Sixth avenue elevated. And impressionistic painting of life. Chrome yellow here. And a dab of bright red there. Always the little potted geranium in tenement windows.

Passengers nod unmindful of the clatter and shriek of rail against rail. A wigged woman holding timidly to the hand of her white whiskered husband. Ruddy cheeked butchers smelling of blood. Squalid rooms where the sun never penetrates.

Rector street. And the turmoil of Fulton. Horse-drawn drays. Seamen with rolling gait. Noon-day picnic parties, lunching on Trinity graves. There's Ralph Pulitzer, of the World. Marble banks. Next door shoe shine stands and stool lunch counters.

A few steps away, Washington street. New York's little Syria. Brick houses with cobblestoned courts. Windows displaying amber piped narghiles. Dried fruit. Roots. And mandolins. Coffee houses that sell mud thick coffee served by dark brown men in fezes.

Syrian women from the desert—big hipped and placid. Rings in ears. Peddlers whose backs are piled high with rugs and laces. Signs in Arabic script, "Al Hoda"—the Syrian newspaper. And not so far away the view of the Statue of Liberty.

Old men, parched as a mummy, sewing in dim lit windows. And young girls hammering brass. First stages of Americanization—the jazz parlor. Coffee being ground in brass mortars. And sold to the click of cash registers.

The wharves of West street. Old frame hotels with projecting porches. The odor of fish, cinnamon, lemons. Two liners being unchained for a voyage across. Cheers and fluttering handkerchiefs.

Tommy Lyman sings in a cheap little cafe in Sullivan street. He is known as "The Tubercular Tenor" and is thrown back to the singers of tear-jerking ballads of the saloon back rooms. Tommy is pale and pasty faced. His eyes are dreamy and his voice just abut husky—but when he sings men and women listen. He weighs about 100 pounds and his voice is not robust. He must sing for just a table of patrons. There is something plaintive and appealing about such tawdry tunes as "Melancholy Baby" and "Dreamy Chintown." A few years ago Tommy was in Paris at the New York Bar just off the Rue de la Paix. He was the most popular of all haunts for Americans. He prospered but he wanted to come back—to the dim lit Sullivan street cafe. "They understand there," he says.

The elemental in song is always appealing. Few have this gift. It was what lifted Gilda Gray from honky-tonk mediocrity to fame. Gilda brought with her the atmosphere of the honky-tonk without the brother rivalry. She has no voice but when she sings people listen.

My favorite singer—if anyone cares—is John Steel. Aside from a pleasing voice he does not mumble his words. You know what he is singing. That is more than you can say for many metropolitan stars.

And despite the fact Main Street is my love, my favorite tune is "The Sidewalks of New York." It perhaps isn't much of a tune but it seems to me to describe the East Side better than any other song describes anything else. It smacks of the days that are gone—when New York was New York. He was chancellor of the exchequer in the Tory ministry that succeeded the coalition government. One of the thorniest problems he was called upon to tackle was the funding of the American debt. His predecessor, Sir Robert Horne, had made arrangements for the funding operation before the coalition fell and Baldwin had to take up the task. "In that case," said the American, "it's no wonder Saul threw his javelin at him."

FIGHTING THE DRUG EVIL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—New steps to wipe drug addiction off the earth are to be taken at the international opium conference held in Geneva this month. Since the international conference of 1908, 48 nations have enacted laws designed to limit traffic in drugs, and the narcotic situation has been improving. The country, particularly, the number of addicts is on a decline, and experts say that the United States has the best control over drug traffic of any country in the world.

At the same time, it is recognized that no country working single-handed can free itself entirely from bootlegging in narcotics. As long as quantities of crude drugs are produced anywhere, and as long as peddling illicit drugs is profitable and sufficiently practicable there will be heavy work for narcotic squads. So the international conference is to try to interest the governments of the world in a policy of closer co-operation.

One proposal is that production of opium and coca leaves be restricted to somewhere near the amount needed for medical and scientific purposes, and that the amount of morphine, landanum, heroin, cocaine and other preparations made from the crude materials also be restricted.

The opium poppy is grown mainly where agriculture is very little developed. The industry is not especially remunerative, except in instances where large crops are marketed. It is believed that if the culture of the poppy is restricted many growers will turn to something else equally profitable.

If, then, surplus opium can be made scarce, and if close supervision can make it different for peddlers to get it, these peddlers will have to pay a price for it so high that most addicts will be unable to supply themselves. This will drive a great number of addicts to taking a cure, and it will lessen the number of new victims.

The close control of drug traffic in this country illustrates how this would work. Federal and state enforcement of narcotic laws have caused the price of bootleg drugs to rise to a high level. Morphine and heroin are now quoted in the regular market at $7.35 an ounce, or less than two cents a grain. This is the price which the medical profession pays for its needed supply of opiates. As about one-fourth of a grain is enough to relieve suffering, the cost of a dose given by a doctor is three-eighths of a cent.

DOPE PEDDLERS BOOST PRICES

The addict, however, takes between three and ten grains of morphine or heroin a day, or even more, and if he buys from peddlers he pays from one to three dollars a grain. His daily ration of drugs, therefore, costs him from three to thirty dollars daily. Government agents, posing as addicts, regularly buy evidence from peddlers at these rates.

The high cost of illicit drugs is one reason why so many addicts turn to peddling drugs or to other forms of crime as a means of getting large sums of money. It is one reason, too, why addiction is not, and cannot be, so prevalent in this country, as reports sometimes indicate.

Once in a while, for instance, rumors that there are thousands of child addicts in cities or in rural communities are circulated. Colonel L. G. Nutt, head of the government's narcotic office, says that his men investigate such rumors but without ever finding evidence to support them. It is not reasonable to suppose that peddlers would make a practice of turning school children into addicts, because children could never get the funds necessary to pay for a regular supply of drugs.

On the contrary, the trend is in the other direction. In the past five years the average age level of addicts has risen from between 18 and 25 years to about 33 years, indicating that few young persons are being made narcotic victims. Limiting the amount of narcotics on the market would tend to make illicit drug prices everywhere really prohibitive, and that would discourage both peddlers and addicts.

Close international co-operation in the matter of apprehending and punishing narcotic bootleggers may also be suggested to the conference in the hope of driving these parasites more quickly out of business. Assistance in this matter would be of great benefit to the United States government, because 50 per cent of the illicit drug trade in this country is due to smugglers.

The United States, Great Britain, France and Germany already have a system of keeping one another informed and warned of shipments of illegal narcotics. And when a large quantity of a bootleg drug is seized by narcotic agents, it is customary for them to notify the country in which the contraband was manufactured.

A fact of which American officials are proud is that in the past two years there have been no American made drugs to speak of picked up in illicit channels in international trade. There might be a very little obtained from a doctor or from a ship's stores, but there have been no bog or important seizures. This indicates that the United States is keeping to the letter of the law by manufacturing drugs only for legalized use, and that bootleg drugs are almost entirely of foreign origin.

DOCTORS ONCE RESPONSIBLE

The medical profession admits that up to about 15 years ago doctors were unfortunately responsible for at least 50 per cent of the cases of drug addiction. When the hypodermic method of administering drugs came into general use, about the time of the Civil war, it was thought that morphine thus taken into the system would not arouse a craving for more. Consequently, morphine was administered to sufferers with very little regard for the after effects, and a great many addicts were made. Then, in 1884, the local anesthetic properties of cocaine were discovered, and addiction to the drug spread. In 1898, heroin was put on the market as an opiate which would not cause addiction, and it was almost a decade before doctors fully realized the danger of this drug.

There will always be a few cases in which the medical profession considers itself justified in deliberately permitting a sufferer to form the drug habit. A patient who is in intense and constant pain and who has only a limited time to live has nothing to lose by taking drugs under prescription. These cases are exceptions. Officials believe that in recent years instances of addiction caused by physicians are rare, and that almost no doctors or druggists dispense narcotics unlawfully.

Professional smugglers and peddlers, however, eagerly take up the business of making addicts and keeping them supplied with drugs as soon as a country begins enforcing laws to prevent any one from buying drugs openly. The boldness of these smugglers is amazing, and stories of their ingenious methods are endless.

Government agents trail down such schemes regularly, and the courts are giving heavy sentences to smugglers and peddlers. There were 4,000 convictions for violations of the narcotic law in 1923 alone, which explains, to a great extent, the reports of large numbers of addicts in prisons.

The situation in the United States is summed up by Colonel Nutt as "bad enough, but no so bad as some try to depict." Until 1915 there was no smuggling because there was no reason for it, and figures on imports of opium show clearly how many addicts could be supplied. We hear some lines that there are a million or even two million dope fiends in this country, but officials say this is impossible. According to their estimates, the curve of addiction rose from Civil war days to a peak of perhaps 250,000 at the end of the century. Twenty years of campaigning against the traffic have reduced the number of cases to about 110,000—which is still 90,000 more than the government thinks that there should be.

Watch Your Officials Act

Judging from comments by people on the street, the impression prevails in East Liverpool that the sessions of the legislative and other branches of the government are not open to the public. This is not the case, for all city, county, district, state and national business, irrespective of its nature, is the business of the people. Consequently, every man, woman and child has the privilege of looking on.

However, the people do not seem to take advantage of their privileges. Except an occasional visit by a high school civics class, whose members seek first-hand information on the conduct of the people's business, few citizens attend the sessions of city boards. Of course, under ordinary circumstances, such meetings are dull, but at intervals there is enough excitement to warrant a trip to city hall, the high school building, county court house, state house or even the halls of congress.

Keep an eye on governmental business, for it is your business. Watch your officials act.

Better Foreign Market

Business pessimists are finding it hard to hold the faith, in the face of foreign trade figures. Government reports show that the United States sold abroad last month goods amounting to $427,000,000, as against $331,000,000 the month before. Also that the September exports were the highest in 42 months.

The foreign market is improving remarkably. So far, the American farmer is the chief beneficiary, because the bulk of the increase represents exported grains, needed to make good crop failures in Europe. But there have been other times when Europe needed food and America had a surplus without a demand for it. The most significant factor in the present situation is that now Europe is able to buy what it needs.

Today it is buying greatly increased quantities of foodstuff. Tomorrow it will be sending large orders for merchandise of many kinds. For Europe is getting on its feet again. It has credit, as the recent German loan amply proved, and can have plenty more. But that credit is based on an expectation of Europe passing the credit-purchase stage before long, and becoming able to pay in cash or equivalent goods needed here.

Bigger business with the rest of the world is in prospect. That will surely mean bigger business at home. The foreign trade, though of secondary importance, has a way of fertilizing domestic trade. It may be that the hard years of war and reconstruction are nearly over for the world in general. Certainly the outlook for America is bright.

Studying Teachers

In a city that has 2,100 public school teachers it is reported that 700 of them took special courses at various universities and teachers' colleges during the past summer. Many studied at institutions of learning within their own state. Other enrollments were made at the universities of Kansas, Colorado, Chicago, Wisconsin, Missouri, California, Southern California, Denver, Michigan, Washington, Minnesota, Illinois and Nebraska. Columbia university, numerous normal schools and teachers' colleges and an art institute all that their share. Three teachers studied at the Alliance Francaise, Paris, France.

Judging from the heavy enrollments wherever good summer schools were in session, other cities and smaller communities were contributing a similar proportion of students to those institutions.

This annual "brushing up" on the part of the teaching profession is a very fine thing. It involves travel and meeting new people. It spreads the discussion of school problems and insures that improved methods of teaching are given their chance. Wide-awake teachers are busily keeping abreast of the time and its needs.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

NOW WE KNOW

The country knows all about it now, or enough to settle the most important questions. The price of wheat, uncertainty of the labor vote and other things considered, La Follette polled a big vote. And, final figures may make it bigger. A third party depends largely on dissatisfaction with old parties. On this occasion, there was only one party really running against La Follette. The Democratic party, nationally, didn't count.

With conditions in America as they are, the number of the dissatisfied is not gigantic. And, at the last minute the dissatisfied farmers on whom La Follette counted were soothed by wheat selling around $1.50 a bushel.

EVERYBODY HAPPY, ALMOST

Wheat and corn went up yesterday, and stocks, especially railroad stocks, were most cheerful. Cotton was less satisfactory, December contracts down to 22½ cents, at least 7½ cents lower than the price ought to be.

WHAT IS GOVERNMENT?

The day devoted to national government being over, not to come again for four years, it might be worth while to establish a definition of government. According to Aristotle, it is "first to see that men shall live; second, to see that they shall live well." That abbreviation of Aristotle's theory in A. E. Shimmer's admirable essay on Greek politics, is as good a definition as any.

To see first, that men live, they are supplied with what they need, and not killed by their enemies and second, to see that they live well, in comfort, free from worry, that's government.

Thus far governments have been fairly successful in enabling a certain small minority to live well. The efforts of new parties and radical parties to extend the well being to a greater number or to all, succeed slowly.

The main problem of government at this time, with nations instead of individuals competing, is to keep things moving.

This country needs to go on doing business more than it needs to discover some better way of doing business. It needs to keep factories and farms going, and it's quite certain that the task, for the moment, is helped by leaving things as they are.

Nineteen hundred and twenty-eight is a long way off. But already friends of Governor Smith in New York are saying, "Next time the Democrats will be asking Al Smith to help them," instead of kicking him out of the convention. They point to his vote in New York, more than wiping out Coolidge's sweep, and snowing under the son of Theodore Roosevelt, and say that Al Smith, if nominated, could do what no other Democrat could do.

Time will tell about that. Perhaps the next national campaign will be fought out on lines hitherto unknown in United States politics.

You realize that even the power of party habit can be broken when you see white Democrats in the south voting for a Republican governor and colored men and women voting for a Democratic candidate.

For the present, however, the old Republican party is boss, with Calvin Coolidge at the head of it. Barring unforeseen calamity he ought to be about as strong four years from now as Theodore Roosevelt was at the end of his first term.

Roosevelt could gnash his teeth hard and bite off striking phrases. But Coolidge's quiet silence seems also to contain the essence of success.

NO LABOR PARTY, YET

The biggest popular vote that any man ever got in American history is the Coolidge vote, by the way, estimated at more than 18,000,000. It is clear that for the present there isn't going to be any "gigantic labor party" in the United States.

Mr. Gurney, head of the American Federation of Labor, urged his followers to vote for La Follette. The labor union, with few exceptions, endorsed La Follette and pledged themselves to vote for him. But something happened, and the men voted with the old parties as usual.

Merely talking about "class consciousness" doesn't create "class consciousness." The mechanic of today is the contractor of tomorrow. It is hard to have genuine "class consciousness" when men slip out of their "class" as easily as they do in the United States.

Opportunity for advancement and enrichment, discourages even mild radicalism. One of the ablest Socialist leaders in this country asked "how many of the 50,000 Socialists in your state would remain Socialists if they inherited $50,000?" replied "perhaps four or five hundred."

This doesn't mean that radicalism is all wrong. It means that men listen to the money in their pockets more carefully than they listen to anything else as a rule.

William Jennings Bryan knows that he was absolutely right when he said the one man that couldn't be elected was John W. Davis. This country is conservative, to put it mildly. Everybody knows that the two old parties represent conservatism and high finance. But moving a candidate direct from the law office of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., Standard Oil and the telephone monopoly into the presidential ballot was a little too much.

Perhaps the plan of the super-bosses was really to make sure of electing Coolidge. If so, the plan worked.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By A. E. GARVIN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Since the advent of a certain amendment to our constitution, there has been a distinct movement to fill the vacancy left in our national life, where man could foregather to settle the destinies of the commonwealth. The National Coffee Roasters association, in convention here, thinks it has a solution to the problem they say exists, and that solution is:

To establish coffee houses for the sterner sex only.

The cigar store, they say, is too small generally, and everyone cannot belong to high-priced clubs, so the informal, exclusive coffee house is being advocated.

Ye Koffey Shoppe would provide a long counter, that slopes away from the customer, and the now nearly extinct brass rail. It would fill the once foaming taps with a rich mellow liquid, golden brown, served either with or without cream.

Booths with tables fastened to the floor with a soft light overhead. "What more," ask the roasters, "could men ask?"

A place where future leaders would discuss the problems of the day, much as they did when our ancestors were still Tories.

"This nation's history is enclosed in the early-day coffee houses," said an official of the association. "Historic, indeed, are the names: 'The Sign of the Green Dragon,' in Boston; 'The Merchants' Coffee House,' in New York, and 'The London Coffee House,' in Philadelphia.

"In the 'Merchants' Coffee House' was fathered the revolt of New York against Toryism, and in Philadelphia the 'London' was the seat of the Continental congress. The men of that day gathered at William Bradford's place, to discuss the events of the day that centered in the figure of George Washington.

"Swinging doors? Why, of course. Everything but the contents of the old stein and the two-fingered glass. Men are naturally a friendly lot and like to get together for discussion and friendly debate of this and that. A steaming cup of America's most universal drink, blended and brewed to make it a delicacy, a bit of a sandwich, and one but other men to interrupt the flow of conversation, can bring nothing but a wholesome conversation, spiked with brilliancies and solutions of troublesome controversies.

"They will come out they went in, taking only their share of the sidewalk, and their minds sharpened for private business problems," according to the association.

"What doesn't a brimming cup of piping hot coffee do for one's brain and general good nature on a nasty, sloppy wintry day?" they ask. "And even where the husband and wife come home full of coffee, domestic tranquility would not be disturbed.

"We feel it is the solution and the gap filling thing for our national loss, due to the amendment," they conclude.

The addict, however, takes between three and ten grains of morphine or heroin a day, or even more, and if he buys from peddlers he pays from one to three dollars a grain. His daily ration of drugs, therefore, costs him from three to thirty dollars daily. Government agents, posing as addicts, regularly buy evidence from peddlers at these rates.

The high cost of illicit drugs is one reason why so many addicts turn to peddling drugs or to other forms of crime as a means of getting large sums of money. It is one reason, too, why addiction is not, and cannot be, so prevalent in this country, as reports sometimes indicate.

Once in a while, for instance, rumors that there are thousands of child addicts in cities or in rural communities are circulated. Colonel L. C. Nutt, head of the government's narcotic office, says that his men investigate such rumors but without ever finding evidence to support them. It is not reasonable to suppose that peddlers would make a practice of turning school children into addicts, because children could never get the funds necessary to pay for a regular supply of drugs.

On the contrary, the trend is in the other direction. In the past five years the average age level of addicts has risen from between 18 and 25 years to about 33 years, indicating that few young persons are being made narcotic victims. Limiting and guarding the amount of narcotics on the market would tend to make illicit drug prices even higher, really prohibitive, and so would discourage both peddlers and addicts.

Close international cooperation in the matter of apprehending and punishing narcotic bootleggers may also be suggested to the conference in the hope of driving these parasites more quickly out of business. Assistance in this matter would be of great benefit to the United States government, because 90 per cent of the illicit drug trade in this country is due to smugglers.

The United States, Great Britain, France and Germany already have a system of keeping one another informed and warned of shipments of illegal narcotics. And when a large quantity of a bootleg drug is seized by narcotic agents, it is customary for them to notify the country in which the contraband was manufactured.

A fact of which American officials are proud is that in the past two years there have been no American-made drugs to speak of, piled up in illicit channels in international trade. There might be a very little obtained from a doctor or from a ship's stores, but there have been no box or important seizures. This indicates that the United States is keeping to the letter of the law by manufacturing drugs only for legalized use, and that bootleg drugs are almost entirely of foreign origin.

DOCTORS ONCE RESPONSIBLE

The medical profession admits that up to about 15 years ago doctors were unfortunately responsible for at least 50 per cent of the cases of drug addiction. When the hypodermic method of administering drugs came into general use, about the time of the Civil war, it was thought that morphine thus taken into the system would not arouse a craving for more. Consequently, morphine was administered to sufferers with very little regard for the after-effects, and a great many addicts were made. Then, in 1884, the local anesthetic properties of cocaine were discovered, and addiction to that drug spread. In 1898, heroin was put on the market, an opiate which would not cause addiction, and it was almost a decade before doctors fully realized the danger of this drug.

There will always be a few cases in which the medical profession considers itself justified in deliberately permitting a sufferer to form the drug habit. A patient who is in intense and constant pain and who has only a limited time to live has nothing to lose by taking drugs under prescription. These cases are exceptions. Officials believe that in recent years instances of addiction caused by physicians are rare, and that almost no doctors or druggists dispense narcotics unlawfully.

Professional smugglers and peddlers, however, eagerly take up the business of making addicts and keeping them supplied with drugs as soon as a country begins enforcing laws to prevent any one from buying drugs openly. The boldness of these smugglers is amazing, and stories of their ingenious methods are endless.

Government agents trail down such schemes regularly, and the courts are giving heavy sentences to smugglers and peddlers. There were 4,000 convictions for violations of the narcotic law in 1923 alone, which explains, to a great extent, the reports of large numbers of addicts in prisons.

The situation in the United States is summed up by Colonel Nutt as "bad enough, but no so bad as some try to depict." Until 1915 there was no smuggling because there was no reason for it, and figures on imports of opium show clearly how many addicts could be supplied. We hear sometimes that there are a million or even two million dope addicts in this country, but officials say this is impossible. According to their estimates, the curve of addiction rose from Civil war days to a peak of perhaps 250,000 at the end of the century. Twenty years of campaigning against the traffic have reduced the number of cases to about 110,000—which is still 90,000 more than the government thinks that there should be.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking — Take Olive Tablets.

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15c and 30c.

Yeggs Frightened Off.

Sullivan.—Yeggs forced an entrance into the Sullivan bank but were presumably frightened away after hammering open two inner cauls of the safe and using an actlyne torch on the money vault which contained approximately $10,000 in money and bonds. The yeggs obtained but $150 in postage stamps. The attempted robbery was not discovered until employees coming to work the next morning found the front doors open.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking — Take Olive Tablets.

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15c and 30c.

Test It on the Road For Quietness and Ease

Probably you never imagined a four-cylinder car could be built that would operate at all speeds practically without vibration.

The good Maxwell does.

Probably, also, you never expected you could drive a four-cylinder car all day in town or across country without fatigue.

You can with the good Maxwell.

Those are some of the reasons why it is a matter of wise judgment to include a complete demonstration of the good Maxwell before you come to a decision about a new car.

The splendid appearance of the good Maxwell, its fine finish, appointments and equipment you can see; the story its owners tell of care-free, economical service you can hear; but performance and riding qualities you must experience and feel to know.

We are pleased to extend the convenience of time-payments. Ask about Maxwell's attractive plan.

"Say, Dad, I want to go to the baseball game this afternoon," said Ira, who was giving some important orders in his business office.

The employer looked at the young son and said, "Don't you know that that is not the way to come hanging into a man's office? You ought to be a little judgment. Now sit in my chair and pretend that you are Father busily engaged, and I am your son."

Ira climbed up into the big chair and the father went out to act the part of son. In a few minutes a rap was heard on the door.

"Come in," said the boy playing father. "Pardon me," said the father, acting the boy part, "I do not like to disturb you, but my work is done, and I would like to get off this afternoon to go to the baseball game, if you will allow it."

"Why certainly, you may," said the pretended father as he put his hand in his pocket, "and here's a dollar to pay your way to the grand stand."

Big Mortgage Recorded.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE.—A 75 million dollar mortgage is on file in the Belmont county recorder's office, having been given by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad to cover improvements. The document is to be recorded in every county in which the Baltimore and Ohio has property. It is made to the United States Trust Company, of New York, and others, and bears 4 per cent interest, maturing in 1945. The mortgage is the second largest in the history of the county, one for 100 million dollars given by a local real company three years ago being the largest.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CHURCH FORUM

(Send problems in question form to Church Editor; answers will appear in latter issue.)

Can you suggest different ways of teaching the Sunday school lesson—it is so easy to get into a rut.

Mrs. G. H. Geyer suggests a dozen different ways which may be suggestive. Combinations of these may be used.

1. The old way—teaching verse by verse. This may be used when the lesson is from the Psalms, Proverbs, Beatitudes, etc.

2. The sermon method—finding the central truth of the lesson and using it as a text.

3. The topical method—assigning several topics to certain members of the class for two-minute talks the following week.

4. The blackboard method—with outline and illustrations.

5. The doctrinal method—teaching the fundamental doctrines of Christianity.

6. Teaching by parables as Christ did—finding an illustration that grips you and using it to illustrate the truth.

7. Teaching by handwork, map, drawing, etc.

8. The question method—each one in the class bringing questions on the lesson, or the teacher ask the questions.

9. The story method—for a narrative lesson. Make the story more real by supplying details.

10. The unusual or spectacular way—curios for a missionary lesson, experiments for a temperance lesson, etc.

The biographical method.

12. The debate—dividing the class and allowing an equal amount of time to each side for discussion.

Stop That Backache!

Is a bad back keeping you upset and miserable? Do you suffer sharp, stabbing pains? Feel so weak, tired and nervous you can seldom enjoy a moment's rest or comfort? Do you wonder what is wrong?

Many times this condition is due to sluggish kidneys that are failing to properly filter body poisons from the blood. The whole system feels the injurious effects of these impurities. Then comes constant backache, rheumatic twinges, headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder irregularities.

Don't wait! Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Here is East Liverpool Proof:

LOUIS H. COCHRANE, 243 Church Alley, says: A cold settled on my kidneys. A sharp pain settled in the small of my back and would almost double me up. I got dizzy spells quite often and always felt tired and worn out. It was hard for me to pass the kidney secretions, for they burned and scalded. I used Doan's Pills from Larikin's Drug Store and all signs of the trouble left me.

DECLARE CRANK CASE DILUTION COSTS MILLIONS

Experts to Meet at Ithaca; Have Vital Developments to Reveal.

Millions of dollars in lubricating oil will be saved if crank case dilution can be prevented, it is asserted in a statement accompanying an announcement that oil experts from many centers will gather at a symposium of the petroleum division of the American Chemical Society at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 8 to 12.

Leading research workers from the laboratories of industry and education, will, it was stated, reveal developments in science which is vital to affecting both oil and automobile industries as well as the general economic life of the nation.

Sources of waste, disclosed by organized inquiry, will be pointed out, and new lines of investigation, aimed at stopping leakage, will be disclosed.

PROMOTION POLICY

Do YOU Contribute Toward This Gigantic Waste?

MOTOR oils should never leak past your pistons into the combustion chambers. If they should, they become diluted with gasoline from the fog like vapor in the chamber—the diluted mixture is then forced back into the crank case below, diluting your oil supply.

Prevent this aggravating leakage and costly waste of gasoline, power, and motor oil. Use a motor oil which seals the spaces between your cylinder walls and pistons—Freedom Perfect Motor Oil.

By using Freedom Perfect, you prevent another needless expense—because of its sealing properties.

ties, Freedom Perfect necessarily must cling to the cylinder walls, preventing metal to metal rubbing of the pistons and excessive wear.

With approaching cold weather, the possibility of crank case dilution increases—you use your choke more, thus drawing in more raw gasoline than is consumed immediately. Now, just as at any other season, you need the sealing properties of Freedom Perfect.

Buy Freedom Perfect Motor Oil, made from 100% Pennsylvania Crude, where you see the Freedom Sign and Recommendation chart displayed.

CIVILIZATION

DOOMED

But

"millions now living will never die."

Have you noticed the increasing unrest among the people of all nations since the World War? Have you wondered why the world's ablest statesmen have failed repeatedly to establish order and peace? They tell you that:

"Civilization is doomed within this generation to a catastrophe such as the world has never known."—Lloyd George.

"The war has revealed that our civilization is pagan."—Dr. Bernard L. Bell.

"We have come to the crossroads and no one knows the way out."—H. G. Wells.

"The United States is preparing for war that would tax us to the utmost in man power resources."—Secretary of War Weeks.

"I think it is certain that if there be another such war civilization will never recover from it."—Viscount Grey.

"The future is very dark. We have reached the twilight of civilization."—Dr. H. L. Brailsford.

Is there no hope for humanity? The Prophets of God, foretold, why the greatest crisis of all ages is now upon the world; why all nations are mustering their forces for the mightiest conflict of all times. At the same time, they tell how that conflict will be cut short by the Lord, and why millions now living shall continue to live upon earth forever. This is a message of hope and comfort which the people need in this hour of distress and perplexity. You are cordially invited to hear

Stop That Backache!

Is a bad back keeping you upset and miserable? Do you suffer sharp, stabbing pains? Feel so weak, tired and nervous you can seldom enjoy a moment's rest or comfort? Do you wonder what is wrong?

Many times this condition is due to sluggish kidneys that are failing to properly filter body poisons from the blood. The whole system feels the injurious effects of these impurities. Then comes constant backache, rheumatic twinges, headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder irregularities.

Don't wait! Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Here is East Liverpool Proof:

LOUIS H. COCHRANE, 243 Church Alley, says: A cold settled on my kidneys. A sharp pain settled in the small of my back and would almost double me up. I got dizzy spells quite often and always felt tired and worn out. It was hard for me to pass the kidney secretions, for they burned and scalded. I used Doan's Pills from Larkin's Drug Store and all signs of the trouble left me.

DECLARE CRANK CASE DILUTION COSTS MILLIONS

Experts to Meet at Ithaca; Have Vital Developments to Reveal.

Millions of dollars in lubricating oil will be saved if crank case dilution can be prevented, it is asserted in a statement accompanying an announcement that all experts from many centers will gather at a symposium of the petroleum division of the American Chemical Society at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 8 to 12.

Leading research workers from the laboratories of industry and education, will, it was stated, reveal developments in science which is vitally affecting both oil and automobile industries as well as the general economic life of the nation.

Sources of waste, disclosed by organized inquiry, will be pointed out, and new lines of investigation, aiming at stopping leakage, will be disclosed.

Do YOU Contribute Toward This Gigantic Waste?

MOTOR oils should never leak past your pistons into the combustion chambers. If they should, they become diluted with gasoline from the fog like vapor in the chamber—the diluted mixture is then forced back into the crank case below, diluting your oil supply.

Prevent this aggravating leakage and costly waste of gasoline, power, and motor oil. Use a motor oil which seals the spaces between your cylinder walls and pistons—Freedom Perfect Motor Oil.

By using Freedom Perfect, you prevent another needless expense—because of its sealing properties.

ties, Freedom Perfect necessarily must cling to the cylinder walls, preventing metal to metal rubbing of the pistons and excessive wear.

With approaching cold weather, the possibility of crank case dilution increases—you use your choke more, thus drawing in more raw gasoline than is consumed immediately. Now, just as at any other season, you need the sealing properties of Freedom Perfect.

Buy Freedom Perfect Motor Oil, made from 100% Pennsylvania Crude, where you see the Freedom Sign and Recommendation chart displayed.

CHURCH MEETS HERE SUNDAY

Pastors to Preach at Morning and Evening Services.

Chester churches will hold services Sunday at the usual hours. Pastors will deliver the sermons morning and evening.

Rev. Thomas H. Newcomb, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church will have as his subjects "The Leopard's Spots" and "Thou Art The Man". There will be the mid-week prayer services Wednesday evening in order to permit members of the congregation to attend evangelistic services at the tabernacle.

Rev. P. C. Roberts, will have charge of the services at St. Matthew's Episcopal church. Holy communion and sermon at 11 o'clock. The sermon subject will be "The Power That Lies In Us".

Rev. B. H. Pocock, pastor of the Nazarene church, will preach at the morning and evening services, which pulpits of the First Presbyterian and First Christian churches will be occupied by the pastors.

BENEFIT SHOW IS ARRANGED HERE

Washington school house residents will present Zane Grey's "Wanderer of the Westland," in natural colors at the Chester theatre Thursday and Friday, November 13-14. A special matinee will be given Thursday afternoon for school children. Music will be furnished by the Chester high school orchestra. Miss Alice Stevenson, supervisor of music, will sing at each performance.

The proceeds will be used to purchase library books for the Washington school.

Rafston Funeral Services

Funeral services for Mrs. Ora Rafston, 45 years old, who died at her home on the Hookstown road, will be held at 2:30 Sunday afternoon. Rev. W. B. Ward, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, will officiate. Burial will be made in Locust Hill cemetery.

MIDLAND ELEVEN AT ROCK SPRINGS

Chester and Midland high football teams clash this afternoon at Rock Springs park. Both teams have been working hard during the week under the watchful eyes of their coaches and are in good shape to stand a hard contest.

Midland high has been playing good football this season and has scored several victories over rival Keystone state squads. The locals, while losing several hard fought battles to heavier and more experienced elevens are confident of trimming the Steel City gridgers.

Large crowd is expected to witness the clash. The preliminary game will be between Chester high jai-lors and St. Aloysius parochial school team of East Liverpool.

PASTOR HOME FROM CHURCH MEETING

Rev. F. C. Roberts, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal church, returned from Cleveland this morning where he attended the "Nation-Wide Campaign" meeting. The sessions were attended by 600 men from all sections of the country and plans were advanced for raising general funds for the church.

The principal address was delivered by Bishop Thomas of Wyoming.

Grand Jury To Meet. Several local citizens are listed among the grand jury that will convene Monday morning at New Cumberland. Petit jurors will report for duty one week later. Cases to be investigated by the grand jury are for most part alleged violations of the prohibition laws.

Roller skating tonight at Rock Springs Park.

SIX MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

Marriage licenses issued at New Cumberland during the past week follow:

Daniel Edwin Prosser, East Liverpool, and Daire Marie Shepherd, Wellsville.
Francis Earl Oesch, New Springfield, and Alta Caroline Elser, New Springfield.
Chester Tomlinson, Newton Falls, and Audrey Charlotte Collier, Newton Falls.
Albertis Calvin Donley, Salem, and Myrtle Belle McNeal, Salem.
George Johnson, New Castle, and Margaret Altman, New Castle.
Lawrence Eugene Kinsey, East Liverpool, and Mildred Davis, East Liverpool.

Celebrate Victory.

Delegation of local Republicans participated in the celebration held Friday evening at Wheeling in honor of the victory achieved by the party in the nation and state at the polls last Tuesday.

Marching clubs from surrounding towns were in the line of march.

Supper Largely Attended.

Large number attended the hot roast beef supper served Friday evening in the First Presbyterian church by members of the junior high school class. A neat sum was realized.

AN APPRECIATION

I desire to express my sincere appreciation for the support tendered me at the polls Tuesday by the people of Chester and especially those in Newell and Weirton and other sections of the county.

G. A. ARNER.

Students at Tabernacle. Local high school students attended evangelistic services Friday night at the tabernacle in East Liverpool. They formed part of the large delegation of students from Wellsville, Newell and East Liverpool high schools present at the meeting.

High School Dedicated. George M. Ford, state superintendent of schools, delivered the principal address Friday evening at the dedication of the new Weir high school building at Weirton. The building is one of the latest designs and one of the best equipped for school purposes in the state.

Improvement in Italy's trade balance is not due to a decrease in imports but to a very substantial increase in exports.

It's not the cough that takes us off. But lack of good nutrition.

Clothes make the man—admirer the women.

Little Buster, Sister's broom; Dusty carpet, Buster's doom.

If you would cure tuberculosis, eat eggs, drink milk and be merry.

Dustless sweeping and open windows are the real, honest-to-goodness disinfectants.

Though many will doubt it, There's this much about it: A fly in the stable's Worth two on the table.

The greatest common disseminator of the "flu" is the human arm—sneezer who sneezes round in public places.

Said old Mr. Blank: I'm a sleeping porch crank. I sleep out raining or shingling; I never take cold. In fact I am told It keeps my health from declining.

Fully seventy-five per cent of our physical ailments need no treatment other than rest in bed and light diet.

Many a bottle of worthless dope has been given the credit for a cure, which nature accomplished in spite of the dope.

CHURCH MEETS HERE SUNDAY

Pastors to Preach at Morning and Evening Services.

Chester churches will hold services Sunday at the usual hours. Pastors will deliver the sermons morning and evening.

Rev. Tolmas H. Newcomb, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church will have as his subjects "The Lord's Supper" and "Thou Art The Man". There will be the mid-week prayer services Wednesday evening in order to permit members of the congregation to attend evangelistic services at the tabernacle.

Rev. P. C. Roberts, will have charge of the services at St. Matthew's Episcopal church. Holy communion and sermon at 11 o'clock. The sermon subject will be "The Power That Lies In Us".

Rev. B. H. Pocock, pastor of the Nazarene church, will preach at the morning and evening services, which pulpits of the First Presbyterian and First Christian churches will be occupied by the pastors.

BENEFIT SHOW IS ARRANGED HERE

Washington school house residents will present Zane Grey's "Wanderer of the Westland," in natural colors at the Chester theatre Thursday and Friday, November 13-14. A special matinee will be given Thursday afternoon for school children. Music will be furnished by the Chester high school orchestra. Miss Alice Stevenson, supervisor of music, will sing at each performance.

The proceeds will be used to purchase library books for the Washington school.

Rafston Funeral Services

Funeral services for Mrs. Ora Rafston, 45 years old, who died at her home on the Hookstown road, will be held at 2:30 Sunday afternoon. Rev. W. B. Ward, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, will officiate. Burial will be made in Locust Hill cemetery.

MIDLAND ELEVEN AT ROCK SPRINGS

Chester and Midland high football teams clash this afternoon at Rock Springs park. Both teams have been working hard during the week under the watchful eyes of their coaches and are in good shape to stand a hard contest.

Midland high has been playing good football this season and has scored several victories over rival Keystone state squads. The locals, while losing several hard fought battles to heavier and more experienced elevens are confident of trimming the Steel City gridgers.

Large crowd is expected to witness the clash. The preliminary game will be between Chester high players and St. Aloysius parochial school team of East Liverpool.

PASTOR HOME FROM CHURCH MEETING

Rev. F. C. Roberts, rector of St. Mathew's Episcopal church, returned from Cleveland this morning where he attended the "Nation-Wide Campaign" meeting. The sessions were attended by 600 men from all sections of the country and plans were advanced for raising general funds for the church.

The principal address was delivered by Bishop Thomas of Wyoming.

Grand Jury To Meet.

Several local citizens are listed among the grand jury that will convene Monday morning at New Cumberland. Petit jurors will report for duty one week later. Cases to be investigated by the grand jury are for most part alleged violations of the prohibition laws.

Roller skating tonight at Rock Springs Park.

SIX MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

Marriage licenses issued at New Cumberland during the past week follow:

Daniel Edwin Prosser, East Liverpool, and Daire Marie Shepherd, Wellsville.

Francis Earl Oesch, New Springfield, and Alta Caroline Elser, New Springfield.

Albertis Calvin Donley, Salem, and Myrtle Belle McNeal, Salem.

George Johnson, New Castle, and Margaret Altman, New Castle.

Lawrence Eugene Kinsey, East Liverpool, and Mildred Davis, East Liverpool.

Celebrate Victory.

Delegation of local Republicans participated in the celebration held Friday evening at Wheeling in honor of the victory achieved by the party in the nation and state at the polls last Tuesday.

Marching clubs from surrounding towns were in the line of march.

Supper Largely Attended.

AN APPRECIATION

I desire to express my sincere appreciation for the support tendered me at the polls Tuesday by the people of Chester and especially those in Newell and Weirton and other sections of the county.

G. A. ARNER.

Students at Tabernacle

Local high school students attended evangelistic services Friday night at the tabernacle in East Liverpool. They formed part of the large delegation of students from Wellsville, Newell and East Liverpool high schools present at the meeting.

High School Dedicated

George M. Ford, state superintendent of schools, delivered the principal address Friday evening at the dedication of the new Weir high school building at Weirton.

The building is of the latest design and one of the best equipped for school purposes in the state.

Improvement in Italy's trade balance is not due to a decrease in imports but to a very substantial increase in exports.

Judith of Blue Lake Ranch

With the cool dawn she awoke shivering and hungry. Her hair had tumbled about her face, and sitting up she braided it with numb, sore fingers. She looked at her hands; they were stained with blood from many cuts. Her skirt was torn and soiled; her stockings were in strips; her knees were bruised. But as she rose to her feet and once more searched the riddle of a crag-broken world, her heart was light with thankfulness.

Last night the one friend she had with her was the North star. Today she would seek to push on toward the west. In that direction she believed the Blue Lake ranch lay, though at best it was a guess. But going westward she could follow the course of the bigger streams, and soon or late, if her strength held, she would come to some open valley where men ran stock. Now, she would go down into the little meadow lying a mile away yonder and seek to find something to eat. If she could but dig a few wild onions, wild potatoes, they would keep her alive. West she would go, if for no other reason than because thus she would be setting her back squarely upon the cavern where Quininn and Ruth were.

The sun rolled into a clear sky and warmed her. She made her way down the long flank of the mountain and into the tiny meadow. For upward of two hours she remained there, nibbling at roots which she dug up with a broken stick, seeking edible growths which she knew, finding little, but enough to keep the life in her, the heart warm in her breast. Then she went on, over a ridge again, down into a canyon and along the stream which rose here and flowed westward.

By noon she was faint and sick and had to stop often to rest, her legs shaking under her. Again she made a scant meal. She had stumbled on a tiny field of wild potatoes and ate what she could of them, thinking longingly of a match for a fire. The match which Ruth had dropped she still had, but she carefully reserved it now, thinking how perhaps a trout, caught in a pool, might have her.

In her already half-starved condition and with the demands constantly put on her strength, she would grow weaker and weaker if help did not soon come. But she was still filled with the glory of freedom.

It was a heart-weary, trembling Judith who late that afternoon made her way upward along another ridge, seeking anxiously to find from this lookout some landmark which she had sought in vain last night. In her blouse were the few roots she had brought with her from the field discovered at noon. Lying in a little patch of dry grass, resting, she watched the day go down and the night drift into the mountains, filling the ravines, creeping up the slopes, rising slowly to the peak to which she had climbed, seeping into her soul. Never had the passing of the day seemed to her so majestic a thing, truly filled with awe. Never until now had the solitudes seemed so vast, so utterly, stupendously big. Never until now, as she lay staring up into the limitless sky, having given up the world about her as unknown, had she drunk to the lees of the cup of loneliness.

So great was the weariness of her tired body that as she lay still, watching the stars come out one by one, she was half-resigned to lie so and let death come to find her. It seemed to her that here in the rude arms of Mother Earth a human life was a matter of no greater consequence than the down upon a moth's wing. But she rested a little and this mood, foreign to her intrepid heart, passed, and she sat up, again resolute, again ready to make her fight as long as life beat through her blood. At last she took the one match from her pocket.

She scarcely dared breathe when, with dry grass and twigs piled against a rock, her dress shielding them from the wind, she rubbed the match softly against her boot. A sputtering flame, making the blue light of burning sulphur, died down, creating panic in her breast, then flared, crackled, licked at the grass. She had a fire and she knew how to use it!

When a log was blazing, assuring her that her fire was safe, she rose swiftly and went in search of the tree she meant to burn. She found a giant pine, pitch-oozing, standing in a rocky open space where there was little danger of the fire spreading. Fagged out and eager as she was, she had not come to the point of forgetting what a great forest fire meant.

She went back to her burning log, for a blazing dry branch which she carried swiftly to the tree. Then she piled dry grass and dead twigs, logs as heavy as she could carry, bits of brush. The flames licked at the tree, ran up it, seemed to fall away, sprang at it again, hungering. Now and then a long tongue of fire went crackling high up along the side of the tree. Judith went back to a spot where, in a ring of boulders, there was another grassy plot, threw herself down and lay staring at the tongues of fire which were climbing higher and higher.

Some one would see her beacon. A forest ranger, perhaps, whose duty it was to ride fast and far to battle with the first spark threatening the wooded solitudes; perhaps some crew in a logging camp, than whom none knew better the danger of spreading fires; perhaps some cowboy, even one of her own men—perhaps Quininn and Ruth? She then would hide among the rocks until they had come and gone. Even now, against the sleep falling upon her, she drew farther back through the tumbled boulders. Perhaps, Bud Lee.

She went to sleep beyond the circle of bright light, tired and hungry and striving against a returning hopelessness, her young body curled up in the nest she had found, a cheek cuddled against her arm, wondering vaguely of some one would see her fire and come—if that some one might be Bud Lee.

CHAPTER XVI.

Bacon, Kisses and a Confession.

Throughout the night the tree blazed unseen. Judith's eyes were closed in the heavy sleep of exhaustion. The flames roared and leaped high skyward, burning branches fell crushingly, to lie smoldering on the rocky soil, the upstanding trunk glowed, vivid against the sky-line.

Judith of Blue Lake Ranch

With the cool dawn she awoke shivering and hungry. Her hair had tumbled about her face, and sitting up she braided it with numb, sore fingers. She looked at her hands; they were stained with blood from many cuts. Her skirt was torn and soiled; her stockings were in strips; her knees were bruised. But as she rose to her feet and once more searched the riddle of a crag-broken world, her heart was light with thankfulness.

Last night the one friend she had with her was the North star. Today she would seek to push on toward the west. In that direction she believed the Blue Lake ranch lay, though at best it was a guess. But going westward she could follow the course of the bigger streams, and soon or late, if her strength held, she would come to some open valley where men ran stock. Now, she would go down into the little meadow lying a mile away yonder and seek to find something to eat. If she could but dig a few wild onions, wild potatoes, they would keep her alive. West she would go, if for no other reason than because thus she would be setting her back squarely upon the cavern where Quinnton and Ruth were.

The sun rolled into a clear sky and warmed her. She made her way down the long flank of the mountain and into the tiny meadow. # DR. BIEDERWOLF'S HIGH SCHOOL NIGHT SERMON

Dr. Biederwolf's sermon Friday night to the high school students of East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester and Newell follows:

This is one of those verses that makes it very plain that if you are lost in this world or in the world to come it will be nobody's fault but your own. A freckle-faced, towse-haired, tangled-toed, bow-legged Columbian county kid can lead a horse to the watering trough, but a whole staff of college professors galore, and the whole East Liverpool police force can't make that horse drink water if he doesn't want to do it and has made up his mind he won't.

There is one thing God won't do. He won't coerce your will. He can't coerce your will and leave you a responsible moral agent. Our will is supreme. There isn't power enough in hell to send you there if you don't want to go and have made up your mind that you won't go. And there isn't power enough in heaven to drag your soul inside the pearly gates if you have made up your mind to reject Jesus Christ in this world and go to hell when you get through. The God be good and free be heaven.

No force divine can love compel, Though song of sins forgiven Sound to the lowest hell. The sweet persuasion of His voice Respects thy sacred will. He giveth day, thou hast thy choice To walk in darkness still.

Your Fault, if Lost. And so it will be your fault if you are lost. If you go out of this tabernacle tonight and go beyond the pale of mercy you will remember how God came to you here and offered to save you and how you spurned his offer and when you have run your earthly career through and come down into the grave and on into eternity you will think over your life in this world and about the things you allowed to keep you back from Christ, and you will see your mistake and acknowledge them then that you were a fool when you made it.

There was an insane asylum burned down to the ground some time ago in one of the eastern States. They got all the inmates out and took them off a little piece to the hillside. And all the attendants and a lot of other people made a human barricade around them to keep them from breaking through and running down into the flames, as insane people are won't to do. But in spite of all they could do about twenty of them broke away and ran down to the hill to the burning building. And they jumped and danced and laughed around it and before any one of them could get hold of them the poor demented wretches rushed right into the flames and were burned to ashes.

And, say, do you know that a type of insanity something like that has got possession of your soul; for what else are some of you doing than those poor insane wretches did, when you fight against every effort of God's brave Son, Jesus Christ, to keep you back from your wilful, obstinate, stubborn, mule-headed determination to rush on into the very flames of hell. God's doing everything He can to save you, and you set your will against Him and do everything you can do to lose your soul and damn it in spite of God and all that heaven and earth can do.

Why People Refuse Christ. Now why is it? Why is it that people will not come to Christ and be saved?

Well, with young people especially, there are three great reasons that keep them away from God:

1. The first is the Godless and good-for-nothing Pleasures of this world.

A young lady who was a most beautiful waltzer came to Dr. John Hall one day and said, "I want to join the church."

"Well," he said, "you know it is one thing to join the church and another thing to give yourself to Jesus Christ, and I could not consent to the one unless I knew the other to be true. But if you become a Christian there are certain things you must give up."

"What do you mean? Do you mean that if I become a Christian I must give up dancing?"

And the doctor replied, "If you become a Christian and Jesus Christ asks you to give up dancing, you must be ready to do it."

And she said, "Dr. Hall, if it comes to choosing between Jesus Christ and the dance, I will hold to my dancing and let Jesus Christ go."

And the poor girl made her choice and went out into the world.

Listen. To be a Christian does not mean to give up the dance; it does not mean to give up the theatre or to give up this or that. But it does mean to give yourself up to God and then do His will when He makes it clear. But I tell you now that any young woman who prefers dance or any other thing to Christ is making the fatal mistake of her life, and the time will come when this and every other form of vain and empty Godless pleasure will become to you as the apples of Sodom, full of ashes and bitterness.

Faust and the Devil.

Do you remember that awful story about Faust and his contract with the Devil. Faust was a student and a good one and the world was full of promise for him. But he wanted wine and women and the turkey trot and all kind of fleshly indulgence, and the Devil said I'll make a bargain with you; I'll see that you get all this if you'll give me a mortgage on your soul and if when you're done and you've got all you want your soul will go to me. And the contract was made. The Devil kept his part of it and Faust had a high old time; he went the pace and drank deep of every cup, but what a price he paid. He thought he was having a good time, but those things didn't satisfy him and wretched and disappointed in the end the Devil came in and claimed his soul and took it off to hell.

"Oh," you say, "I wouldn't sign a contract like that." Well, that's what you're doing whether you think so or not when you give Jesus Christ the cold shoulder for a lot of the things that some of you are doing now and the Devil's going to foreclose his mortgage on some of your souls a good deal sooner than some of you think now.

A woman said to a minister: "You must have an awfully dull time."

"Why?"

"Oh, there are so many things that you can't do that we can."

He said, "What are the things that you can do that we can't?"

"You can't dance."

"How do you know?"

She said: "You don't, and you don't play cards; you don't go to the theatre; you must have an awful dull time."

He said: "According to your argument you are happier than I because I deny myself some things that you don't; consequently you are happier than I. You think you are, because you do some things that I don't. According to your argument there is another strain of mankind lower than you are and they gratify desires that you don't. According to your argument these people are happier than you because they gratify their desires, and they don't deny themselves of the things that you deny yourself. So according to that they are happier than you because they do some things that you don't. But you know that is not so. The fact is a Christian is the happiest being in the universe, and I want you to understand that it isn't indulgence that makes happiness, but denying oneself. You deny yourself some things that the lower crowd don't and you know you are happier than they are. I deny myself some things that you don't. I am happier than you are."

How to Get Happiness.

Happiness don't come from dancing and wine drinking and wearing decoholic dresses. You've got a mighty little, infinitesimal, measly, mediocre makeup to your soul if you can be satisfied with things like these strong, sweet, uplifting influence on her friends and be a Godsend to the world, but she'd rather gad about and run the streets and flirt with every new young sport that comes along and go to a cheap show and see a lot of half dressed chorus girls whirl around on one toe and dance with some spider-legged dude than to be the strong, sweet, pure, womanly girl she might be.

But if you had a soul of any size, if you had a heart of any worth, you never could be satisfied with anything but a Christian life with all that good-for-nothing moral rot cut out.

My Friend Clarence Strouse.

My, but you ought to see my friend, Clarence Strouse. He's one of the slickest dressers in the United States. I always look like a farmer along side of him. He always looks like he just came out of a band box. He gave me this cross I wear on my chain. We met each other just a few years ago and fell in love. I learned to love him because of his sterling worth and his joyful, wholesome, good nature. And he learned to love me, I guess, because of my big hands and awkward feet. He's the happiest, funniest fellow you ever met. He has more fun than you can whistle at. He made up his mind that life was going to be worth living for him. He began with the theatre and in a certain city the most expensive box in the finest theatre was always filled with Clarence

Strouse and his party. He led the applause and the funniest bouquets that reached the stage were always his; but when the curtain went down and the evening was over and he was back in his own room, he turned the light low down, dropped his head in his hand and his heart was empty.

And the devil said: "Clarence, the theatre will never do for you; you must have the ball and the grand and grand match; with your splendid figure and elegant southern society." And Clarence followed his advice. He was easily a leader and it was not long until it was heralded in all the papers that the grand march at the great annual ball at Richmond would be led by the young Virginian from Salem. He has told me about it and said it was like a dream in its beauty and fascination. The beautiful women were there with their handsome gowns, the perfume, the flowers and the music. And the grand march came with Clarence and his partner in the lead and thousands of eyes were riveted upon him. Did he do it handsomely? Of course he did. My, but the applause; how it pleased him. And next day papers said that for elegance and magnificence nothing in that part of the country had ever equalled the march led the night before by the stately young Mr. Strouse of Salem. But that night when the ball was over and the lights were turned out and Clarence found himself back in his room at the hotel between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning, he turned the lights low down, dropped his head in his hand and his heart was empty and he said: "Is this all there is in it?"

And the devil said: "Clarence, you'll never be satisfied with the ball; you want fast horses and the race course." And Clarence took a fortune, for he had plenty of money, and went throughout the south and bought four of the finest and fastest horses of the southland. Among them he had one, a blazed-face corral, whose name was Walter, that he loved more than the rest. He would go down to the stables and spend a lot of time with him in the stall. He'd feed him a little sugar and rub noses with him. He said he loved that horse better than any man he ever knew (until he met me). He said the trouble with the races was not in the races, but in the company the horses had to keep. And I'll tell you boys, many of you would better yourselves a good deal if you'd get rid of some of your trifling companions and buy yourself a good horse.

Well, the day for the races came and Walter was entered with four other horses. He got a poor start and was the last one off, but in one minute and a few seconds he passed the fourth horse and then the third, and then he comes up with the first two and they are so close you could almost throw a blanket over them. And now the second horse falls back. They've been once around and are coming in on the home stretch. Clarence is standing in a high fence beside a lot of bookmakers, dressed up in his patent leather shoes, well-cressed pants, handsome light spring overcoat and a fortune in either hand. Something told him that Walter was going to win. "Watch that big blazed-face sorrel," he yelled. "Why, it's like finding money." "Go on, Walter," he cried, and the horse seemed to recognize his voice, his ears laid back and his tail was like the tail of a fox running against the wind, and down the home stretch they came. Walter was about a nose's length behind, but they shot under the wire together, and Clarence—well, he fell off the fence, rolled over in the dust, sprained his ankle a little, but was up and towards the judges' stand when one of his friends cried, "Walter wins. Walter wins." Tears rolled down the cheeks of my friend and when they brought the horses to the stable he put his arms around Walter's neck and hugged him like a child. By-standers applauded. And then the rest of the afternoon and especially the night the dissipation, the revelry!

Wire Your Home for Complete Convenience

Hallways and Closets

- 1 Wall switch just inside front door. One set of buttons turns on or off the porch lights.
- 2 Second set of buttons on this plate controls center light in hall.
- 3 Wall bracket fixture for small all-night lamp.
- 4 Wall switch which turns on light in upper hall as you ascend. A corresponding switch upstairs turns off the lower hall center light.
- 5 Duplex convenience outlet for attaching cleaner, electric heater, a floor lamp, etc. Two such outlets in hall.
- 6 Telephone with extension—can be answered upstairs or down.
- 7 In t e r c o m m u n i c a t i n g house phone, to garage.
- 8 Light in coat closet—turns on or off as door is opened. All closets in the home have this advantage.

The doorbell is operated by a transformer attached to the regular electric light wires—no batteries.

It's the Little Comforts That Count Most

Having your front hall wired so that you can turn on the light upstairs or down is only a detail in the arrangement of a house, but it's these little step-savers and conveniences that make your home complete. It costs so little extra to have everything handy.

1. The first is the Godless and good-for-nothing Pleasures of this world.

A young lady who was a most beautiful waltzer came to Dr. John Hall one day and said, "I want to join the church."

"Well," he said, "you know it is one thing to join the church and another thing to give yourself to Jesus Christ, and I could not consent to the one unless I knew the other to be true. But if you become a Christian there are certain things you must give up."

"What do you mean? Do you mean that if I become a Christian I must give up dancing?"

asks you to give up dancing, you must be ready to do it."

And she said, "Dr. Hall, if it comes to choosing between Jesus Christ and the dance, I will hold to my dancing and let Jesus Christ go."

And the poor girl made her choice and went out into the world.

Listen. To be a Christian does not mean to give up the dance; it does not mean to give up the theatre or to give up this or that. But it does mean to give yourself up to God and then do His will when He makes it clear. But I tell you now that any young woman who prefers dance or any other thing to Christ is making the fatal mistake of her life, and the time will come when this and every other form of vain and empty Godless pleasure will become to you as the apples of Sodom, full of ashes and bitterness.

Faust and the Devil.

Do you remember that awful story about Faust and his contract with the Devil? Faust was a student and a good one and the world was full of promise for him. But he wanted wine and women and the turkey trot and all kind of fleshly indulgence, and the Devil said I'll make a bargain with you; I'll see that you get all this if you'll give me a mortgage on your soul and if when you're done and you've got all you want your soul will go to me. And the contract was made. The Devil kept his part of it and Faust had a high old time; he went the pace and drank deep of every cup, but what a price he paid. He thought he was having a good time, but those things didn't satisfy him and he grew more and more discontented in the end the Devil came in and claimed his soul and took it off to hell.

"Oh," you say, "I wouldn't sign a contract like that." Well, that's what you're doing whether you think so or not when you give Jesus Christ the cold shoulder for a lot of the things that some of you are doing now and the Devil's going to foreclose his mortgage on some of your souls a good deal sooner than some of you think now.

A woman said to a minister: "You must have an awfully dull time."

"Why?"

"Oh, there are so many things that you can't do that I can."

"You can't dance."

"How do you know?"

He said: "According to your argument you are happier than I because I deny myself some things that you don't; consequently you are happier than I. You think you are, because you do some things that I don't. According to your argument, there is another strain of mankind lower than you are and they gratify desires that you don't. According to your argument these people are happier than you because they gratify their desires, and they don't deny themselves of the things that you deny yourself. So according to that they are happier than you because they do some things that you don't. But you know that is not so. The fact is a Christian is the happiest being in the universe, and I want you to understand that it isn't indulgence that makes happiness, but denying oneself. You deny yourself some things that the lower crowd don't and you know you are happier than they are. I deny myself some things that you don't. I am happier than you are."

How to Get Happiness.

Happiness don't come from dancing and wine drinking and wearing decollete dresses. You've got a mighty little, infinitesimal, measley, mediocre makeup to your soul if you can be satisfied with things like these strong, sweet, uplifting influence on her friends and be a Godsend to the world; but she'd rather gad about and run the streets and flirt with every new young sport that comes along and go to a cheap show and see a lot of half-dressed chorus girls whirl around on one toe and dance with same spider-legged dude than to be the strong, sweet, pure, womanly girl she might be.

But if you had a soul of any size, if you had a heart of any worth, you never could be satisfied with anything but a Christian life with all that good-for-nothing moral rot cut out.

My Friend Clarence Strouse.

My, but you ought to see my friend, Clarence Strouse. He's one of the slickest dressers in the United States. I always look like a farmer along side of him. He always looks like he just came out of a band box. He gave me this cross I wear on my chain. We met each other just a few years ago and fell in love. I learned to love him because of his sterling worth and his jovial, wholesome good nature. And he learned to love me, I guess, because of my big hands and awkward feet. He's the happiest, funniest fellow you ever met. He has more fun than you can whistle at. He made up his mind that life was going to be worth living for him. He began with the theatre and in a certain city the most expensive box in the finest theatre was always filled with Clarence

Strouse and his party. He led the applause and the funniest bouquets that reached the stage were always his; but when the curtain went down and the evening was over and he was back in his own room, he turned the light low down, dropped his head in his hand and his heart was empty.

And the devil said: "Clarence, the theatre will never do for you; you must have the ball and the grand and grand march; with your splendid figure and elegant dress, you can become the leader of southern society." And Clarence followed his advice. He was easily a leader and it was not long until it was heralded in all the papers that the grand march at the great annual ball at Richmond would be led by the young Virginian from Salem. He has told me about it and said it was like a dream in its beauty and fascination. The beautiful women were there with their handsome gowns, the perfume, the flowers and the music. And the grand march came with Clarence and his partner in the lead and thousands of eyes were riveted upon him. Did he do it handsomely? Of course he did. My, but the applause; how it pleased him. And next day papers said that for elegance and magnificence nothing in that part of the country had ever equalled the march led the night before by the stately young Mr. Strouse of Salem. But that night when the ball was over and the lights were turned out and Clarence found himself back in his room at the hotel between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning, he turned the lights low down, dropped his head in his hand and his heart was empty and he said: "Is this all there is in it?"

And the devil said: "Clarence, you'll never be satisfied with the ball; you want fast horses and the race course." And Clarence took a fortune, for he had plenty of money, and went throughout the south and bought four of the finest and fastest horses of the southland. Among them he had one, a blazed-face corral, whose name was Walter, that he loved more than the rest. He would go down to the stables and spend a lot of time with him in the stall. He'd feed him a little sugar and rub noses with him. He said he loved that horse better than any man he ever knew (until he met me.) He said the trouble with the races was not in the races, but in the company the horses had to keep. And I'll tell you boys, many of you would better yourselves a good deal if you'd get rid of some of your trifling companions and buy yourself a good horse."

Well, the day for the races came and Walter was entered with four other horses. He got a poor start and was the last one off, but in one minute and a few seconds he passed the fourth horse and then the third, and then he comes up with the first two and they are so close you could almost throw a blanket over them. And now the second horse falls back. They've been once around and are coming in on the home-stretch. Clarence is standing in a high fence beside a lot of bookmakers, dressed up in his patent leather shoes, well-cared pants, handsome light spring overcoat and a fortune in either hand. Something told him that Walter was going to win. "Watch that big blazed-face sorrel," he yelled. "Why, it's like finding money." "Go on, Walter," he cried, and the horse seemed to recognize his voice, his ears laid back and his tail was like the tail of a fox running against the wind, and down the home-stretch they came. Walter was about a nose's length behind, but they shot under the wire together, and Clarence—well, he fell off the fence, rolled over in the dust, sprained his ankle a little, but was up and towards the judges' stand when one of his friends cried, "Walter wins. Walter wins." Tears rolled down the cheeks of my friend and when they brought the horses to the stable he put his arms around Walter's neck and hugged him like a child. By-standers applauded. And then the rest of the afternoon and especially the night the dissipation, the revelry!

Wire Your Home for Complete Convenience

Hallways and Closets

- 1 Wall switch just inside front door. One set of buttons turns on or off the porch lights.
- 2 Second set of buttons on this plate controls center light in hall.
- 3 Wall bracket fixture for small all-night lamp.
- 4 Wall switch which turns on light in upper hall as you ascend. A corresponding switch upstairs turns off the lower hall center light.
- 5 Duplex convenience outlet for attaching cleaner, electric heater, a floor lamp, etc. Two such outlets in hall.
- 6 Telephone with extension—can be answered upstairs or down.
- 7 Intercommunicating house phone, to garage.
- 8 Light in coat closet—turns on or off as door is opened. All closets in the home have this advantage.

The doorbell is operated by a transformer attached to the regular electric light wires—no batteries.

It's the Little Comforts That Count Most

Having your front hall wired so that you can turn on the light upstairs or down is only a detail in the arrangement of a house, but it's these little step-savers and conveniences that make your home complete. It costs so little extra to have everything handy.

Matinee and Evening

Unlike many of the so-called Broad-

Cargo" which will appear at the Ceramic theatre on Tuesday, Nov. 11, matinee and night, is one of the orig-this sensational success throughout the country. One company is now in its second year at Daly's theatre, New York, another is playing in London, England, the third is at present in Chicago and the fourth on tour, each company and production is a dupliall of the four companies have played

HOW THIS WOMAN GOT STRENGTH

Put Up 300 Quarts Fruit, 500

Norwalk, Iowa.—"I have been mean-medicine has done

me. When I started to take it I was almost bed fast and would have been in bed all the time if I had had any one to care for my children.
There was so much swelling and pain that I could hardly take a step. I took seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, and found that so healing.
I am not entirely well yet for I was in bad shape when I started your medicine, but I am so much better that I am not afraid to recommend it, and I think if I keep on taking it, it will cure me. I have done my work all alone this summer, caring for four children, and I canned 300 quarts of fruit and made 500 glasses of jelly, so you see I must

CERAMIC SCHOOL TERM IS OPENED

The opening session of the Ceramic school was held Thursday evening in the high school building, when 23 enrolled. Additional enrollments are expected at the next session Monday evening. Monday and Thursday were designated as class night for the 18-week term. Shop mathematics will be the first study. A. V. Bleininger, chief chemist at the Homer Laughlin China company, is the director.

"White Cargo" is laid on the West coast of Africa and deals with the white man's efforts to vilify that vast expanse of jungle and rot. The gradual physical and mental degradation of the white men who come in contact with the ever shining sun and, in their loneliness the jungle gets them and then it's "Mammy Pal-

The play was written from known facts and no desire for sensationalism attempted. It's the unvarnished truth, presented by a company of excellent artists and a scenic investiture that depicts the country and locale with vivid realism.

Dr. Biederwolf

The wine flowed and the money with it. Beautiful girls were there with bewitching eyes and low-cut dresses, and Clarence was king of the night.

His Heart Was Empty.
But when it was over and he was back in his room he turned the light down low, dropped his head in his hands and his heart was empty. Poor, hungry heart, it was still sad and disappointed, for it was too big and too noble to be satisfied with things like that. And the next morning he loaded his horses and took them back to Salem, where his father had built him a private track. That night he walked down the streets of his native town with a heart that was yet unsatisfied and he came to a tent where John B.
Culpepper was preaching the gospel and he heard the preacher say that if a man would forsake the world and do the will of Christ he would have a peace that passeth understanding and a joy that would be abiding. And as Clarence stood in the door of the tent he said, "God knows that's what I want," and when the preacher gave the invitation he walked down the aisle—and my, what a stir it made, for everybody knew Clarence Strouse —and he fell upon his knees in the straw and the tears ran down his cheeks again like the day when Walter won the race, but they were different tears; and he said, "Oh God, if you will do for me what the preacher said, I will never pitch another card; I'll never darken another theatre door; I'll never be found on another ball room floor"—and then the struggle came—it seemed as though he would die—but he said, "Lord, if you will do this for me, I'll give up Walter!" and it seemed as though the flood gates of heaven were lifted up and into his soul poured all that was big and pure and abiding. Walter is a family herse in Philadelphia today, and Clarence is a preacher of the gospel; he preached to 4,000 people on Young's pier at Atlantic City just a short time ago. And you ought to hear him laugh. It would do you about as much good as the sermon.

Where Pride Prevents.

Some of you don't understand this and you may not believe it but I say to you the time will come when you'll get tired of the choice you've made and you'll wish a thousand times you had done the will of Christ instead of going to the Devil like some of you are now.

H. The second thing that keeps you back is your pride. You think it's a long time till your hairs will be gray, but it won't be long even if God lets you live till that time. It seems only like eight or nine years ago I graduated from the high school but it was in 1884, and that's 1894—ten years and 1904 makes 20 years and 1914 makes it thirty. I don't suppose I'll live thirty years more, although I'm only 48, but if I live 30 years more they will go a lot faster than the past thirty. They'll be gone before I know it. But God won't let all of you live as long as I've lived. Don't make any mistake about that. Some of you won't be here for long.

If I'd come back here in ten years how many in this audience do you suppose would be missing? If I'd come back in twenty years how many of you would stand up and answer to your name. And if I'd come back in fifty years, it would be like a sepulcher, you would be dead and you would be dead and you and every man and woman in this vast audience over 25 years old will be in your grave and these little boys and girls would come hobbling down these aisles with gray hair and bent shoulders and trembling hands about ready to drop into their coffin.

May God help you to see tonight what you ought to do and help you to do it now. Tomorrow and next year belong to God. And ye will not come unto me, ye might have everlasting life. Oh, I beg of you to come tonight.

As a minister of your mother's God, as an ambassador of Jesus Christ, I ask you to come and stand for Christ tonight. Kings have stood for Him. President Harrison said, "I count it an honor to stand for Him."
Then will you? And if you will, come without waiting for any one to ask you and give me your hand.

to be done I'd rather have it take place in this world than in the world to come. I'd rather be laughed at here for a few years by a few little good-for-nothing cowards for doing what I knew was right than I would be laughed at through all the years of eternity by all the devils of hell for being too big a coward to do it.

Procrastination Prevents.

III. The other things that keeps you back is procrastination. You think it's a long time till your hairs will be gray, but it won't be long
even if God lets you live till that time. It seems only like eight or nine

CHURCH ITEMS FROM WORLD

The Y. M. C. A. at Yale University is to wage a campaign against drinking and for the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment.
Sweden has 650 missionaries in 25 foreign languages in so many foreign fields. The missionary activities began with the Reformation.

A special program for National Missions Week to be held November 23-30 is being prepared by different national Women's Home Missionary societies.

The Federal Council of Church of Christ of America are suggesting that all ministers preach on "The Outlawry of War" Sunday, Nov. 9.

The Presbyterian church in the United States will conduct a nationwide missionary drive including the foreign-born population, where the need for Americanization as well as for religion is declared urgent. The week of November 23-30 will be known National Mission week.

The oldest church in the world—that built in 300 A. D. on Mount Ararat by St. Gregory—is to be exactly reproduced by the Armenians of Los Angeles. A congregation of 600 will worship in it.

The Golden Jubilee convention of the W. C. T. U. will be held on Nov.
14-19 in Chicago. A day of devotion will precede the opening of the convention beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning of November 13 and closing at 10 o'clock that night.

Russell H. Conwell has announced that his famous lecture, "Acres of Diamonds," has been delivered for the last time. The number of times he has given it totals 6,150. More than twelve million dollars has been raised through its use for philanthropic work. Dr. Conwell is now 81 years old.

Chinese students to the number of 139 have arrived in Minneapolis from Seattle on a special train. They will scatter to attend various schools throughout the country. Included in the party are 12 Chinese girls who will enroll in the University of Southern California, which has enrolled a number of Chinese students, most of whom are honor graduates of Chinese schools.

Army Recruiting Office Reopened in Postal Building

Army recruiting activities, suspended here several weeks ago, were resumed Friday with the return of Corporal Alex Grossham of the Army Recruiting service.

Men are wanted for three year enlistment periods for the infantry, field artillery and cavalry for the Eighth corps area. The recruiting officer will maintain his headquarters in the basement of the postoffice building.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON POINTS

Live Questions for Discussion on the Sunday School Lesson—How Jesus
Satisfies—The Feeding of the Five Thousand—John 6:1-15—for Sunday, November 9th.

1. Why did Christ work miracles?
2. What did Jesus mean by "eating his flesh and drinking his blood?"
3. Did the multitude show signs of hunger or were they seemingly unconscious of their need? How is this a picture of the world at large?
4. How does bread symbolize salvation? How can we appropriate Christ?
5. What signs today that the world is hungry for Christ? How can Christ satisfy us today?

6. How may we be sure that the little we do shall be equal to the needs we should meet? What are some of the fragments that need gathering?
CLERICUS: "They were filled." Let us never fear that the grace of God will run short. There is enough of it and plenty to supply the whole world, and every one can receive a blessing that will supply all his spiritual needs.

Lesson Prayer.
Dear Father, forgive our sinful concern over our daily needs. Thou hast fully provided for us to this hour.
Thy resources are for us to our utter-most need. Help us to trust thee without these misgivings which so hinder our faith. In thy name, we ask. Amen.

No need to pay cash for your Gulbransen. Just a few dollars down will put one in your home.

The prices in this ad are cash prices. But any Gulbransen can be purchased on our convenient payment plan. We will gladly give you the full details.

$25 First Payment

Pedal Touch

You register your touch, through the pedals, when you play the Gul-bransen, just as you would if you touched the keys with your fingers.

The Gulbransen will do, musically, things that you never believed possible with any musical instrument of its type.

Remember the Gulbransen is a Registering Piano, registering your exact touch and expression—it is not an ordinary player-piano.

Expect big things, musically, of the Gulbransen; it will not disappoint you. Gulbransen "pedal touch" gives you artistic piano music without a trace of the mechanical—it gives you the thrill of personally playing music with your own expression.

This Week— Choose Between These 4 Beautiful Gulbransen Models

There's the splendid White House model—with a tone that captivates the musicians—an instrument worthy of its fine name—Gulbransen "White House" model.

Also the "Country Seat" model—sturdy and substantial; the "Community" model, economical and satisfactory.

And then the "Suburban" model—the popular favorite! It has been adjudged the most for the money obtainable in musical instruments.

You'll think so, too, when you see the Suburban.
It's a winner—it will prove to be an investment in happiness for you and your family not for one, two, or three years—but for many years.

If it were not for the tremendous capacity of the Gulbransen factories—45,000 instruments a year—and the economical manufacturing that is the result—it would be necessary for us to get $200 or $300 more for the Suburban model.

"WHITE CARGO" HERE TUESDAY

Matinee and Evening Presentations at Ceramic Theatre.

Unlike many of the so-called Broadway hits that go on tour the "White Cargo" which will appear at the Ceramic theatre on Tuesday, Nov. 11, matinee and night, is one of the original companies that are presenting this sensational success throughout the country. One company is now in its second year at Daly's theatre, New York, another is playing in London, England, the third is at present in Chicago and the fourth on tour, each company and production is a duplicate of the other, all of them containing casts of equal prominence. In fact, all of the four companies have played New York for a period of time before being sent on tour, so that the players could become proficient in their respective parts and also allow-

HOW THIS WOMAN GOT STRENGTH

Put Up 300 Quarts Fruit, 500 Glasses Jelly and Took Care of Four Children

Norwalk, Iowa.—"I have been meaning for some time to write and tell you how much good your medicine has done me. When I started to take it I was almost bed fast and would have been in bed all the time if I had had any one to care for my children. There was so much swelling and pain that I could hardly take a step. I took seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, and found that so healing. I am not entirely well yet for I was in bad shape when I started your medicine, but I am so much better that I am not afraid to recommend it, and I think if I keep on taking it, it will cure me. I have done my work all alone this summer, caring for four children, and I canned 300 quarts of fruit and made 500 glasses of jelly, so you see I must be better. I feel pretty good all the time and I am glad to tell others about the medicine."—Mrs. C. J. WENNER-MARK, Box 141, Norwalk, Iowa.

Women can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve them from female troubles. For sale by druggists everywhere.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Tope, 64 years old, who died at her home in New Cumberland, were held Thursday afternoon in the Christian church at Pughtown. Rev. Frank Helme officiating. Burial was made in the Flats cemetery.

Pughtown Grange State's Largest.
Thomas Minesinger and Campbell Herron, who represented Pughtown grange at the state meeting at Morgantown, have returned home. During the meeting it was brought out that Pughtown grange had the largest membership of any unit in the state. The delegates will submit a report of the proceedings at the next regular meeting Tuesday, November 18.

"White Cargo," is laid on the West coast of Africa and deals with the white man's efforts to vilify that vast expanse of jungle and rot. The gradual physical and mental degradation of the white men who come in contact with the ever shining sun and, in their lonesomeness the jungle gets them and then it's "Mammy Palaver" for forgetfulness.
The play was written from known facts and no desire for sensationalism attempted. It's the unvarnished truth, presented by a company of excellent artists and a scenic investiture that depicts the country and locale with vivid realism.

The wine flowed and the money with it. Beautiful girls were there with bewitching eyes and low-cut dresses, and Clarence was king of the night.

His Heart Was Empty.
But when it was over and he was back in his room he turned the light down low, dropped his head in his hands and his heart was empty. Poor, hungry heart, it was still sad and disappointed, for it was too big and too noble to be satisfied with things like that. And the next morning he loaded his horses and took them back to Salem, where his father had built him a private track. That night he walked down the streets of his native town with a heart that was yet unsatisfied and he came to a tent where John Bl Culpepper was preaching the gospel and he heard the preacher say that if a man would forsake the world and do the will of Christ he would have a peace that passeth understanding and a joy that was abiding. And as Clarence stood in the door of the tent he said, "God knows that's what I want," and when the preacher gave the invitation he walked down the aisle—and, my, what a stir it made, for everybody knew Clarence Strouse—and he fell upon his knees in the straw and the tears ran down his cheeks again like the day when Walter won the race, but they were different tears; and he said, "Oh God, if you will do for me what the preacher said, I will never pitch another card; I'll never darken another theatre door; I'll never be found on another ball room floor"—and then the struggle came—it seemed as though he would die—but he said, "Lord, if you will do this for me, I'll give up Walter," and it seemed as though the flood gates of heaven were lifted up and into his soul poured all that was big and pure and abiding. Walter is a family herse in Philadelphia today, and Clarence is a preacher of the gospel; he preached to 4,000 people on Young's pier at Atlantic City just a short time ago. And you ought to hear him laugh. It would do you about as much good as the sermon.

Where Pride Prevents.
Some of you don't understand this and you may not believe it but I say to you the time will come when you'll get tired of the choice you've made and you'll wish a thousand times you had done the will of Christ instead of going to the Devil like some of you are now.

II. The second thing that keeps you back is your pride.

Do you know why I know your pride is of the Devil? The reason why I know your pride is of the devil is because it will allow you to associate with low down trifling fellows and to give yourself to that which is unclean and never a blush will come to your cheek. And yet it won't allow you to walk down this aisle as a sign that you mean for fear some trifling and worthless young fellow or some empty headed, good for nothing woman will laugh at you. There isn't a young man in the town worth speaking to, there isn't a young woman worth noticing when you pass her on the street, that will sneer at you if you do what you think is right. And yet the Bible never spoke truer when it said: "The fear of man bringeth a snare." But, listen; you make a mistake when you think the world will laugh at you for being a Christian and doing what you think is right. Where one will laugh at you there will be 99 who'll cheer you and congratulate you.

But suppose the world does laugh? Are you afraid because of that. God pity you if that's the kind of stuff you are made of.

I despise a coward, the little two by four boneless shrimp that's deny his soul and sell his influence to the devil because some ill-bred good for nothing, empty-headed thing might give him the grin if he stands for what he thinks is right.

But listen; if there's any laughing to be done I'd rather have it take place in this world than in the world to come. I'd rather be laughed at here for a few years by a few little good-for-nothing cowards, for doing what I know was right than I would to be laughed at through all the years of eternity by all the devils of hell for being too big a coward to do it.

Procrastination Prevents.

III. The other things that keeps you back is procrastination.
Oh, how fast time does fly. You think its a long time till your hairs will be gray, but it won't be long even if God lets you live till that time. It seems only like eight or nine years ago I graduated from the high school but it was in 1884, and that's 1894—ten years and 1904 makes 20 years and 1914 makes it thirty. I don't suppose I'll live thirty years more, although I'm only 48, but if I live 30 years more they will go a lot faster than the past thirty. They'll be gone before I know it. But God won't let all of you live as long as I've lived. Don't make any mistake about that. Some of you won't be here for long.

If I'd come back here in ten years how many in this audience do you suppose would be missing? If I'd come back in twenty years how many of you would stand up and answer to your name. And if I'd come back in fifty years it would be like a sepulcher, you would be dead and you would be dead and you and every man and woman in this vast audience over 25 years old will be in your grave and these little boys and girls would come hobnobbing down these aisles with gray hair and bent shoulders and trembling hands about ready to drop into their coffin.

May God help you to see tonight what you ought to do and help you to do it now. Tomorrow and next year belong to God. And ye will not come unto me that ye might have everlasting life. Oh, I beg of you to come tonight.

As a minister of your mother's God, as an ambassador of Jesus Christ, I ask you to come and stand for Christ tonight. Kings have stood for Him. President Harrison said, "I count it an honor to stand for Him." Then will you? And if you will, come without waiting for any one to ask you and give me your hand.

NEWS FROM TOWNS IN TRI-STATE DISTRICT

VOTERS DEFEAT SCHOOL LEVY

Salineville District Electors Turn Down Bond Issue.

Voters of the Salineville school district defeated a bond issue for $96,000 for high school purposes last Tuesday by a vote of 611 to 352. The fact that the schools of Salineville are now overcrowded prompted the board of education to present the issue to the voters.

In Hanover township a three mill school levy for five years carried by a vote of 188 to 174, and there were 98 ballots in this box that were not marked either in favor or against the issue.

The two mill levy in Centre township for five years carried by a vote of 234 to 126.

In East Palestine, where $10,000 was asked for on a bond issue for school purposes, the issue carried by a vote of 156 to 330.

DECISIONS MADE BY JUDGE MOORE

In common pleas court Judge James G. Moore has given Thomas Nance permission to withdraw exhibit "A" from his petition filed against the Hartford Fire Insurance company.

In the case of Joseph Davis against Nettie Davis, this action has been dismissed on motion of the plaintiff at his costs.

John Wilson, who took a case filed against him to common pleas court on appeal after he had judgment rendered against him in an action filed by Claude M. McCoy in a court of the justice of the peace, has been granted leave to file a petition.

EMMONS BROTHERS IN LEGISLATURE

For the first time in the history of the Ohio legislature two brothers have been elected as members, but from different counties. This case has to do with Ralph W. Emons, of East Rochester, elected last Tuesday as a representative from Columbiana county, and his brother, Van D. Emons, who has been re-elected in Summit county.

The latter and Richard Edwards, of Cleveland, will very likely create a contest for the chairmanship of the finance committee, although both men will be members of the committee.

Wednesday night the citizens of West township celebrated the election of Mr. Emons, and staged a parade along the Lincoln highway in that township in honor of his election.

ELKRUN GRANGE TO HOLD MEETING

Elkrun grange has arranged an interesting program for its regular meeting Saturday night, the leading discussion being lead by Jess Thomas on "Is Education Worth While?"

"The Finest Thing That Ever Happened to Me" will be a subject discussed by all members of the grange.

Miss Esther Anglenyer will render a vocal solo and there will be a reading by William Smith. Miss Ruth Burson will also give a reading and a recitation will be delivered by Miss Catherine Munn. A piano and saxophone duet will be played by Wilmer Morlan and Miss Ruth Huston. Several musical selections will be given by the Grange orchestra.

JUDGE POLLOCK GIVEN BIG VOTE

Judge John Pollock, the Republican candidate for court of appeals has been returned by the seven counties in the district by a majority of between 6,000 and 7,000.

In Monroe county, which is always Democratic, Judge Pollock received a majority of nine over his opponent. In Columbiana county, Judge Pollock had a majority of 2,369 over Mr. Bell.

TWO DIPHTHERIA CASES REPORTED

Two additional cases of diphtheria were reported to the County Health offices Saturday from Leetonia, together with two cases of scarlet fever from Columbiana and one case of scarlet fever from Elkton. There has been no change reported in the smallpox situation at Columbiana, where one patient is being cared for.

Damage Suit Filed.

Harriet Powers her counsel Metzger & McCarty of Salem has filed her petition in common pleas court asking $50,000 against the City of Salem.

The plaintiff claims that by reason of ice and snow on the pavements at Salem March 15, last, she fell and was severely injured, and that the city was at fault, because the ice and snow was not cleared from the side.

Drag for Cat.

NEWS FROM TOWNS IN TRI-STATE DISTRICT

Salineville District Electors Turn Down Bond Issue.

Voters of the Salineville school district defeated a bond issue for $96,000 for high school purposes last Tuesday by a vote of 611 to 382. The fact that the schools of Salineville are now overcrowded prompted the board of education to present the issue to the voters.

In Hanover township a three mill school levy for five years carried by a vote of 188 to 174, and there were 98 ballots in this box that were not marked either in favor or against the issue.

The two mill levy in Centre township for five years carried by a vote of 234 to 126.

In East Palestine, where $10,000 was asked for a bond issue for school purposes, the issue carried by a vote of 1,555 to 339.

DECISIONS MADE BY JUDGE MOORE

In common pleas court Judge James G. Moore has given Thomas Nance permission to withdraw exhibit "A" from his petition filed against the Hartford Fire Insurance company.

In the case of Joseph Davis against Nettie Davis, this action has been dismissed on motion of the plaintiff at his costs.

John Wilson, who took a case filed against him to common pleas court on appeal after he had judgment rendered against him in an action filed by Claude M. McCoy in a court of justice of the peace, has been granted leave to file a petition.

EMMONS BROTHERS IN LEGISLATURE

For the first time in the history of the Ohio legislature two brothers have been elected as members, but from different counties. This case has to do with Ralph W. Emons, of East Rochester, elected last Tuesday as a representative from Columbiana county, and his brother, Van D. Emons, who has been re-elected in Summit county.

The latter and Richard Edwards, of Cleveland, will very likely create a contest for the chairmanship of the finance committee, although both men will be members of the committee.

Wednesday night the citizens of West township celebrated the election of Mr. Emons, and staged a parade along the Lincoln highway in that township in honor of his election.

ELKRUN GRANGE TO HOLD MEETING

Elkrun grange has arranged an interesting program for its regular meeting Saturday night, the leading discussion being lead by Jess Thomas on "Is Education Worth While?"

"The Finest Thing That Ever Happened to Me" will be a subject discussed by all members of the grange. Miss Esther Angstrom will render a vocal solo and there will be a reading by William Smith. Miss Ruth Burson will also give a reading and a recitation will be delivered by Miss Catherine Muzum. A piano and saxophone duet may be played by Wilmer Morlan and Miss Ruth Huston. Several musical selections will be given by the Grange orchestra.

JUDGE POLLOCK GIVEN BIG VOTE

Judge John Pollock, the Republican candidate for court of appeals has been returned by the seven counties in the district by a majority of between 6,000 and 7,000.

In Monroe county, which is always Democratic, Judge Pollock received a majority of 1,500 over his opponent. In Columbiana county, Judge Pollock had a majority of 2,369 over Mr. Bell.

TWO DIPHTHERIA CASES REPORTED

Two additional cases of diphtheria were reported to the County Health officers Saturday from Leetonia, together with two cases of scarlet fever from Columbiana and one case of scarlet fever from Elkton. There has been no change reported in the small-pox situation at Columbiana, where one patient is being cared for.

Damage Suit Filed.

Harriet Powers her counsel Metzger & McCarty of Salem has filed her petition in common pleas court asking $50,000 against the City of Salem.

The plaintiff claims that by reason of ice and snow on the pavements at Salem March 15, last, she fell and was severely injured, and that the city was at fault, because the ice and snow was not cleared from the side walks.

Drag for Cat.

ELYRIA.—After police and firemen had labored two hours dragging the Mussey quarry hole, a woman informed them that the "baby" supposed to have been murdered and thrown into the water was only her troublesome tom cat.

of the year ready to start against McKeesport, the team that beat them in the opening game 10 to 0. Stanley Keck, the Princeton All-American will be here and will probably kick a field goal or two. Keck played a couple of games at Martins Ferry early in the season. In one game he kicked two field goals from the middle of the field and in each of the other two games he played he got one field goal. The locals feel that with him in the lineup they can get three points most any time they want them.

Old Grid Pals To Battle On Rival Squads

WEST LIBERTY, W. Va., Nov. 8.—When the Bethany Piebes and West Liberty Normal eleven meet at Bethany this afternoon, attention will be largely paid to the Hamilton brothers of these two schools. "Jinks" Hamilton of Chester High, and one of the greatest stars turned out of that school, will be playing against his brother Paul, of East Liverpool High, who has been playing a remarkable game for the Bethany Piebes. "Jinks" is one of the fastest members of the Normal squad, and has been one of the big ground gainers in past games. He has also been playing a strong defensive game. His brother, Paul, has been playing wonderful ball on the defensive, and is one of the best interference backs on the Buffalo Creek team. The outcome of today's battle may result in the possible work of these brothers.

Bethany Strong. Bethany has been idle the past two weeks, and Coach Latta has been drilling his team hard for this game. ## YOST'S ELEVEN NOT BACKWARD

Despite Standings, School Claims Best in Conference.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 8.—No doubt based on the theory that a gold nugget sometimes bears a vague resemblance to a coffee bean, the university of Michigan wishes to proclaim the fact that it has the best team in the country. Some of its followers go even farther than that. They think they have the second best team in the middle west, the Illinois performance being rated at the top. It might be mentioned that they are duly aware that Notre Dame is represented by a football team this fall, though seemingly the average conference community would be pleased to forget it.

Fielding Yost, of course, is not a party to those immoderate claims, but he does think his eleven is vastly better than its record indicates and quotes the following to prove it: Michigan got four first downs against Minnesota and won, 13 to 0; Michigan got seven first downs against Illinois' 14 and scored two touchdowns against six; Michigan was out-scored in first downs by both the Michigan agglies and Wisconsin but won by respective scores of 7 to 0, and 21 to 0. "We are opportunists," said Yost. "Give Michigan the ball inside mid-field and apparently it will score two times out of four. Even with their great attacks, neither Illinois nor Notre Dame can show as high an average. We simply have a better team than our 39 to 14 defeat of Illinois indicated."

In brief, the gold nugget has been mistaken for a coffee bean by those with only long-range information on the subject.

The Wolverine has no great ball-runner like Grange, nor an all-star backfield such as Notre Dame can muster, but it is playing the old Harvard system—strike one and strike hard idea—right into the ground. Michigan is a team of opportunists.

It is using the kicking game and watching for the breaks at all times. When it gets them it turns a vicious attack, headed by Steger and Rockwell, and seldom has it failed to produce. Much of its success has been gained in dashes outside the tackle position held by Edwards, a sophomore, whom they claim either will make the all-American team his first year or the world is wrong. Edwards is said to be equally gifted on defense.

Babcock, on the opposite side of the line, is a good, steady man, lacking Edwards' sheer brilliance. The center trio, Brown, Slaughter and Steele, rank with the best in the conference, according to local log-rollers.

But the ends, Marion and Grube, who opposed Illinois and failed to stop Grange, no longer occupy these positions. Marion has changed places with Miller, 1923 fullback and the shift has worked. The other flank is held down by Flora, giant sophomore, Grube is now a substitute. Herrstein, the remaining first string back,

HALLS DEFEAT POTTERS' FIVE

Green's Eight Field Goals Too Much For Opposition.

After holding back in the first half, probably with a view to encouraging the opposition, Center Johnny Green of the Hall China five of the "Y" industrial league cut loose in the concluding period of the clash with the Potters Friday evening, his flock of field goals contributing in no small measure to the Hall's 32 to 26 victory. Green dropped two field goals in the first half and registered six in the second, accounting for just one-half of his team's total points.

Scoring from the Potters' standpoint was fairly well divided among Guyton, Bricelin and Hamilton.

The score:

Halls Mackey ..... F ..... Hamilton
C. Smith ..... F ..... Bricelin
Green ..... C ..... Guyton Hall ..... G ..... Wallace
Dyer ..... G ..... Zuck
Substitutions—Halls, W. Smith and Heddleston; Potters, Moore.

Field goals—Mackey, 4; Green, 6; Dyer, Hamilton, 3; Bricelin, 2; Guyton 3.

Fouls—Mackey, 3; C. Smith, Hamilton, 4; Bricelin, 5; Zuck.

Going Beyond Mileage in Tires

Until five years ago mileage was the only standard by which a tire was judged. In 1919 The GENERAL introduced the low air pressure idea with the 30x3½ Cord requiring only 30 pounds of air.

Road tests clearly show that a car rolls more freely on GENERAL CORDS than on other tires.

This Rolling resistance in tires is due to their internal friction. It works just as actively against the progress of the car when power is being used as when coasting.

That is why the GENERAL CORD with its advantage in motor power—DUE TO LESS ROLLING RESISTANCE—adds to the life of your motor and pays dividends in the form of fewer motor repairs and longer motor life.

Harvard and Princeton To Meet In First Of Big Three Battles

Ton of Tiger Cash Hits Cambridge And Brings Down Odds

Two to One and Eight to Five Quotations Changed to Seven to Five; Roper Expected to Use Light, Fast Backs.

By Davis J. Walsh
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 8.—Super rivals by tradition, instinct and mutual consent, Princeton and Harvard will meet this afternoon in the premiere of the big three series, recognized by themselves at least as the hall mark of gridiron aristocracy. To them it mattered not at all that the bourgeoisie of collegiate football happen to be in the ascendancy. That both have been beaten by teams that prefer their blood red and not blue. They figured that rule by divine right was still a popular pastime and therefore concerned themselves with little beyond victory or defeat today. Odds of 7 to 5 said that Harvard would be the team favored by fate when the whistle shrilled its last. These were shortened figures, beaten down from 2 to 1 and 8 to 5, by a ton of Princeton money which rode into town over night from New York and way points. The suspicion that the Tiers, ever the nemesis of Harvard, had something up the strategic sleeve, also influenced the rally in Princeton's stock.

Perfect weather. Sunny and cool but not cold, favored the occasion and the customary capacity crowd waited for the opening whistle. In this case it was 55,000 owing to the fact that Harvard stadium has concrete and not elastic walls.

Like the house divided against itself, the crowd was equally partisan in its support of the contending teams. Princeton men came on from New York this morning, secretly flushed with prospect of a typical Princeton rally, for the first of its two big moments. The Tiger was alleged to be twice the team it was in losing to Notre Dame several weeks ago.

Its heavy, semi-experienced line was said to attack during the last week, so much so, in fact, that Roper planned to use a light, fast back field that could take advantage of all openings that were expected to be presented. The backfield, it was said, would be composed of Williams, Weeks, Slagle and Gilligan, with veterans, such as Caldwell, Dinmore and Gibson held in reserve.

It was further alleged that Princeton had developed a passing attack of more than ordinary merit and that its new backfield had been summoned with the idea that it would run a bit wild against the Harvard wings, which were believed to be none too good. But this was the sum total of Princeton's possible advantage in the pre-game calculations, although tradition has it that Princeton does not always have to be as good as Harvard in order to win.

In the present instance, everything points to the Tiger being second best. Where Princeton rallied after Notre Dame, the crimson also stepped along to better things after its Dartmouth reverse and today was easily rated as the better team of the contending pair.

showed to particular advantage against Minnesota.

In other words, Michigan has a punch, something that other conference teams, barring Illinois, seems to lack. Chicago has all kinds of power until it gets down to the goal line; Ohio State, fool-proof defensively, seldom gets even that far, and Iowa, judged upon its performance against Illinois, is an offensive weak sister. Minnesota and Wisconsin do not figure, Northwestern has a one-man attack, built around Baker, and Purdue is too light to get anywhere in particular.

Throughout the Illinois disaster, the writer would be willing to concede Michigan's omnipotence. But this is in effect to say that if you throw out the Dempsey fight, Willard would still be champion.

Attention to cause prevents the effect.

It was pointed out often during the 1924 big league campaign that the pitcher was having his day.

Records for the entire season bear this statement out very clearly.

That the pendulum swung a bit away from slugging toward pitching is indicated by the list of few hit games contributed by National and American league hurlers.

Two no-hit games, 13 two-hit contests and 32 three-hit affairs were hung up by fingers in the big circuits.

Jess Haines of the St. Louis Cardinals pitched the only real nine-inning no-hit contest, of course. He turned the Braves back on July 17 without a single. Walter Johnson breezed through seven innings without being nicked for a hit by the Browns on Aug. 25.

Howard Ehmke of the Red Sox and Bill Doherty of the Cardinals hogged the honors in the two-hit class. Each grabbed off a pair of such games. Others who collected one two-hit game during the season were Zachary, Rommel, Zahnizer, Sherry Smith, Whitehill, Mogridge of the American league and Mitchell, Cooper, Kremer, H. Bell, Yde, Benton of the Reds, Glazner and Neft of the National league.

The American league saw Daws, Martina, Ehmke, Meeker, Thurston, Ogden, Danforth, Murray, Zachary, Shocker, and Cvergros hurl games in which the opposition collected but three hits. Young (Genewich) and Dazzy Vance each pitched three shutouts for the old circuit fans. McQuillan rang up the three mark twice and Jess Barnes, Alexander, Keen, Benton of the Braves, Rixey, MacNamara, Kremer, Meadows, Dickman, Hubbell, Cooper, Aldridge and Yde allowed a trio of hits once.

Fans saw National league hurlers pitch four-hit games on 40 different occasions and the American league folks saw 37 such games hurled. Those fans who like real slugging matches were not ignored, however. American league pitchers were hampered for a total of 17 hits in 21 games and National league hurlers suffered the same fate in 26 contests.

The Glants, in addition to winning the National league title and losing the world's series, won the distinction of collecting the greatest number of safeties in one game. On Sept. 10 they socked all the pitchers the Braves trotted out for a total of just 27 hits.

Will Walter Johnson step out of the big show as long as Clark Griffith continues to offer him the salary he now draws and wait himself faces the chance of equaling Cy Young's great record of pitching 22 years in the big show?

There are two temptations that are hard to resist.

That Willie Hoppe takes lightly the talk that he is hesitant about meeting the leading contenders for his balk line title because of his long layoff while playing the three cushion game is indicated in his action in signing to play young Jake Schaefer a 3,200-point match for the 18.2 title over the closing days of November and the early ones of December.

The first four of the eight blocks of 400 points each will be played in Los Angeles Nov. 24-28. The other four in San Francisco Dec. 2-5.

This gives Hoppe practically only three weeks in which to "forget" three cushion play and tune up his balk line shots.

The match will be an important one in that a victory for Schaefer will bring a rush of hopefuls seeking to defeat Hoppe in the international championship tourney next February.

STATE IS HOST TO INDIANANS GREYS PRIMED FOR TWO GAMES

Ohio Has Weight Advantage, But Lose Nichols and Devoe.

Play at Bellaire Sunday Sebring Eleven Here Tuesday.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 8.—The Buckeyes were to entertain Indiana's football crew in the Ohio bowl this afternoon for the first time, bent upon disposing of the visitors in as short time as possible to recover prestige lost in last week's non-conference tie.

On the other hand, "Navy Bill" Ingraham's collection of football players, not having won a conference contest this season, have just about decided the time is ripe for a victory and were expected to put forth all they have in an attempt to humble Ohio State.

These two features, to which may be added favorable weather, something the Buckeyes have had very little of this season, should encourage a lively tilt when the teams meet this afternoon.

Cloudy, cool weather prevailed, which was appreciated by coach Wilcox's men who have been playing most of their games this season in baseball temperatures.

Ohio had the weight advantage by about three pounds per man, but they also entertained two casualties in Nichols and Devoe. Neither will be able to play against the Hoosiers, who announced every player on their squad is physically fit to compete today.

Both the Hoosiers and Ohio State were expected to resort to the forward pass early in the game.

Having polished off their battle plan with a snappy workout Friday evening at city park, the East Liverpool Greys feel quite confident they will be in the best of condition for their two battles within three days—Bellaire on Sunday and Sebring on Tuesday.

The squad has met with misfortune in the temporary loss of full-back Davis who will be unable to play in the Sunday game as a result of injuries sustained recently. A small bone has been fractured in one of Davis' hands.

The Greys' special is scheduled to leave the Broadway terminal on Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. A number of fans will accompany the team.

Although the locals are anticipating a thrilling fray at Bellaire the greater part of their interest has been centered in the clash on Tuesday with the Sebring eleven. The Mahoning contains, undefeated so far this year, will strive to maintain their record and, with this end in view, are fortifying all positions.

The Sebring management has announced the following lineup: Ends, Cameron and Mattick; tackles, Miller, Bumgarner; guards, Cook, D. Cameron; center, Moore; backfield, Morrow, Minsinger, Staffer, Davis.

Manager Cochran is now negotiating for a good attraction for the Thanksgiving date. This contest will close the Greys' season and every effort will be made to obtain a worthy opponent.

Metro's "Revelation" Comes to American Monday and Tuesday

Hailed as the finest story of the year, Metro's special production of "Revelation," by Mabel Wagnalls, will come to the American Theatre on Monday for a run of two days. This picture, which tells the story of a girl model of the Paris Montmartre who found her soul when posing as the Madonna of an old legend, is said to be the greatest directorial achievement of George D. Baker, who has had such successes to his credit as "Slave of Desire," "Toys of Fate" (with Nazimova) and many others. A really all-star cast has been used in the production. It includes such players as Viola Dana, Monte Blue,

New Social Building.
DEFIANCE.—Plans for a new $25,000 school building to adjoin St. John's Lutheran church here were announced by the parochial building. It was the third blaze in recent years, and orders from the state fire marshal's office to replace the present shingle roof are hastening the church's plans. The new building, to be erected next spring, will be fireproof, brick and two stories high, with a full-depth basement.

EAST END

BEAVER HIGHWAYS
TO BE IMPROVED

Passage of the bond issue calling for $1,500,000 for good roads and bridges by the electors of Beaver county will result in practically all highways in the county being repaired next summer. List of roads to be improved will be compiled by the county commissioners and it is likely that bids will be asked early next year.

ODD FELLOWS TO ATTEND SERVICES

Pennova lodge, I. O. O. F. will join with other lodges of the district in attending evangelistic services next Tuesday evening at the tabernacle. The delegation, which is expected to be one of the largest groups to attend in a body will be composed of lodge members from Chester, Newell, Wellsview, Lisbon and several other places. Dr. Biederwolf will deliver an appropriate sermon.

Sunday Services Here

Sunday school will be held at the usual hour in the local churches Sunday morning. Members of the various churches will join in the union services at the tabernacle in the morning, which will be the first Sunday morning meeting of the campaign. Services will also be held at tabernacle afternoon and evening.

Class Meeting Held.

Members of class No. 14 of the Second Presbyterian church met Friday evening at the home of J. W.

Johnson in Orchard Grove avenue. Following the business session a social hour was held.

Dawson Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah J. Dawson, 88 years old, who died at her home near Fairview, Pa., were held Friday afternoon. Burial was made in the cemetery at that place.

Body Claimed.

OTTAWA.—A small card, upon the back of which was written "mother" and the name and address of himself on the opposite side, was all that Dr. J. F. Eckelbarger, coroner, had to work on in locating relatives of Lewis Bollinger, 55, of Zanesville, who fell dead while shaving in his rooms in the passenger car parked along the Baltimore and Ohio railroad here. A brother of Bollinger was located and came to Ottawa to claim the body. Bollinger had been employed by the B. & O. in concrete tank construction work three weeks.

New Method of Reducing Fat

Here's joyful news for every fleshy person who loves good things to eat—especially those who are denying themselves the things they like most because of their desire to keep down their weight or to reduce the fat with which they are already burdened.

The famous Marmola Prescription has been put up in convenient tablet form and is now sold by druggists everywhere at only one dollar per box. To get rid of fat steadily and easily, simply take one of these little tablets after each meal and at bedtime until you have reduced your weight to where you want it. No wrinkles or flabbiness will remain to show where the fat came off.

Simply use Marmola Prescription Tablets according to directions. They are pleasant and easy to take. No rules or special regulations—just the regular use of the tablets. Try them for just a few weeks and get results without going through long sieges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet. Get them at any good drug store. If your druggist should not have them in stock you can secure them direct from the Marmola Company, General Motors Building, Detroit, Mich., by sending one dollar. Thousands of men and women each year regain healthy, slender figures this way.

BEAVER HIGHWAYS
TO BE IMPROVED

Passage of the bond issue calling for $1,500,000 for good roads and bridges by the electors of Beaver county will result in practically all highways in the county being repaired next summer. List of roads to be improved will be compiled by the county commissioners and it is likely that bids will be asked early next year.

ODD FELLOWS TO

Pennova lodge, I. O. O. F. will join with other lodges of the district in attending evangelistic services next Tuesday evening at the tabernacle. The delegation, which is expected to be one of the largest groups to attend in a body will be composed of lodge members from Chester, Newell, Wellsville, Lisbon and several other places. Dr. Biederwolf will deliver an appropriate sermon.

Sunday Services Here

Sunday school will be held at the usual hour in the local churches Sunday morning. Members of the various churches will join in the union services at the tabernacle in the morning, which will be the first Sunday morning meeting of the campaign. Services will also be held at tabernacle afternoon and evening.

Class Meeting Held.

Dawson Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah J. Dawson, 88 years old, who died at her home near Fairview, Pa., were held Friday afternoon. Burial was made in the cemetery at that place.
